NORTH NOVATO OVERHEAD

Construction worker Mickey Lewis directs a crane as it lifts a stack of plywood to the deck of the freeway bypass bridge over the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks north of Atherton Avenue in Novato. This is the northbound portion of the twin overpass bridges. The southbound bridge will be started in a few weeks. It is estimated that it will take approximately three months to finish the two bridges. At the right can be seen traffic moving on the detoured portion of Highway 101. Present estimates put completion of the freeway bypass for August of this year.

A 'Key Problem' Facing Kissinger

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger spent longer than expected with British leaders today, then flew to Damascus to tackle "the key problem in the Middle East right now."

"I hope we can begin progress towards getting peace talks started between Syria and Israel," Kissinger said before boarding his special U.S. Air Force jetliner. "I consider this the key problem in the Middle East right now."

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said Israel sincerely wants to separate its forces from Syria along the lines of its disengagement agreement with Egypt.

The Syrian government was keeping public interest in Kissinger's mission at a low key.

Damascus' state-run newspapers carried no word on the visit and Damascus Radio mentioned it briefly for the first time early today.

Kissinger made an overnight stop in London en route to his fourth—and most difficult—mission to the Middle East in as many months.

He had a "long session" during the morning with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alex Douglas-Home, spoke by telephone with Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe, tried and failed to see opposition Labor leader Harold Wilson, then met Prime Minister Edward Heath in what Kissinger called "the spirit of characteristic friendship" between Britain and the United States.

Kissinger said his meeting with Heath—discussing the Middle East, the world energy crisis and the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks in Geneva—was marked by "the warm personal relationship" between Heath and himself.

The meeting unexpectedly stretched into a working lunch, delaying Kissinger's departure until 3:03 p.m. British officials were reported to be highly pleased with his talks as well as his decision to stop in London for consultations.

Kissinger's mission to the Middle East was undertaken at the request of the leaders of Syria, Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Algeria. Syria, he said, holds the key.

He told newsmen at London airport that Israel's demand for release of its prisoners held since the October war by Syria is "one of the key preconditions to getting peace talks started."

"I am very hopeful that this problem will be resolved," he said.

Kissinger is expected to meet early tomorrow with Syrian President Hafez Assad, the 47-year-old air force general who boycotted the opening sessions of the Geneva Middle East peace talks cosponsored by the United States and Soviet Union. Egypt has said it will not resume the talks with Israel until a troop disengagement accord has been reached by Damascus and Jerusalem.

Kissinger then is expected to fly to Jerusalem for talks with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir. But the outcome of his initial talks with Assad could determine whether the momentum toward agreement can be maintained.

Kissinger was asked about a news conference statement by President Nixon last night appearing to link Kissinger's peace efforts with the Arab oil embargo against the United States.

"We don't have any precise date in mind for such a suspension," Kissinger said.

"What he was saying was that the progress towards peace in the Middle East we hope will spell progress toward lifting the embargo."

American officials said Kissinger's first task would be to get from Assad a list of 80 Israeli POWs Israel says Syria has been holding since last October's war.

Syria has refused to release such a list. Israel has made receipt of this list a prior condition to talks about troop disengagement like that negotiated between Israel and Egypt along the Suez front in January. Officials said it would be "a miracle" if Kissinger secured agreement this trip.

The United States believes Syria and Israel must talk it out for three or four weeks before Kissinger could return and help put the finishing touches to any accord.

American Jews Aboard Captured Israeli Bus

TEL AVIV (UPI) — An Israeli bus carrying 28 American Jews on a tour of the Sinai Desert frontlines took the wrong road today and wound up in Egyptian custody near Ismailia on the east bank of the Suez Canal, the military command said.

Israel requested the return of the Egged Co. tourist bus through the U.N. peace-keeping forces, the command said.

The command said the bus carried American members of the United Jewish Appeal (UJA) and at least one army escort officer. UJA Director Haim Vinitzky said 28 members of the organization went on the tour, all of them Americans.

Tours of frontline positions, even before the October war, are a regular feature of visits to Israel by Jews from abroad who come to the country in organized groups such as the UJA. Army officers carrying black Uzi submachine guns always accompany them.

A UJA spokesman said the group arrived in Israel yesterday and planned to stay a week. He said the members came from throughout the United States. He said he will not release their names or addresses until they are returned by Egypt.

"I don't expect them back in Tel Aviv before midnight," the spokesman said. A military spokesman said the bus was

Los Angeles Votes Odd-Even Gas Plan

Marin Plans A Critical Look At Reagan Idea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County became the first county in the state today to adopt an emergency "gasoline marketing" plan based on license plate numbers.

The board of supervisors voted 4-0 to put Los Angeles County residents on a gasoline distribution plan announced yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan. It can be imposed in any of the state's 58 counties where it is requested.

It probably will take effect here Friday.

(Marin County supervisors today decided to take a critical look at the proposal before making any such request.)

(Prompting their hesitation was mention in the governor's plan of a local "control center to provide for monitoring of the program.") Several supervisors expressed concern that cost of staffing such a center might fall on local property tax payers.

(Supervisors elected to study the matter with state officials and representatives of the independent Gas Dealers Association. For Sonoma County gas plan, see page 19.)

In Oakland, supervisors voted 3-0 today to declare a state of local emergency to permit Reagan to include Alameda County in the plan.

Reagan said he felt California was not yet at a stage where rationing was needed and he urged newsmen at a news conference to "please, please don't use the word 'rationing.' This plan is not rationing but simply marketing. When we first announced that we had a contingency plan in abeyance and used the word, it provoked panic buying."

"So instead of driving around until they needed gas, people started buying every time they passed a station, which produced a sort of rolling storage."

Reagan said the plan would permit owners of cars with even-numbered license plates to buy gasoline on even-numbered days and those with odd-numbered license plates to buy gasoline on odd-numbered days. Everyone would be permitted to buy on the 31st of a month and out-of-state drivers could buy at any time. Californians with personalized plates containing no numbers would be treated as zeroes, or even, under Reagan's plan.

He said the mandatory plan would encourage dealers to remain open on Sundays, in apparent conflict with President Nixon's request to close on Sundays. He said the President's request "was made before there were any other programs such as this."

Reagan was unclear on a number of points, such as which agency would enforce such a plan, or if there would be a maximum or minimum purchase and what would happen if stations chose not to open on Sundays.

County supervisors wishing to implement such a program could request Reagan declare their counties emergency areas. Such counties would be permitted to impose state requirements on all its stations.

Reagan said motorists might be required to make a minimum purchase, "to stop people from lining up for two hours for 67 cents worth of gasoline."

Meanwhile, the Federal Energy Office's regional headquarters in San Francisco said the state has been allocated an additional 21 million gallons of gasoline over its February quota to meet demands in hardship areas where motor fuel has run short, the Federal Energy Office's regional headquarters said today.

The FEO regional office said Reagan was informed by telegram yesterday of the emergency increase.

Area allocations within the state would be the responsibility of state authorities, said Elizabeth Whitsett, FEO public affairs officer.

She said oil companies serving California were told to reply within 48 hours if they are unable to distribute the additional allocation.

The additional supply can come from increased refinery yields, refinery reserves, and some from imported refined products, she said.

The FEO said California regularly was granted a 3 per cent overuse reserve to meet emergency needs of industrial or public agency users.

The additional 21 million gallons allocated to California for February amounts to an extra 3.09 per cent reserve grant.

Miss Whitsett said that any portion of the 21 million gallons that is not distributed and used in February will be carried forward as an addition to the regular March allocation.

FEO expects state authorities to be responsible for areas of allocation and the oil companies to be responsible for distribution and delivery to the service stations where it is needed.

Hayakawa Loses Bid For Senate

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The state Supreme Court today rejected a bid by Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley to overturn a law requiring that a candidate be a member of a political party for one year before running for office on its ticket.

The 4-3 ruling in effect bars Hayakawa's candidacy for Republican nomination for U.S. senator.

Hayakawa, former president of San Francisco State University, switched his registration last August from Democrat to Republican and then petitioned the Supreme Court to overturn state law barring his candidacy for senator on the Republican ticket.

"The issue of law involves the freedom of all California citizens to change party affiliation without discriminatory penalties and the right to have the opportunity to vote for the candidate of their choice," Hayakawa argued in his suit.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Donald R. Wright was backed by justices Marshall F. McComb, William P. Clark and Louis H. Burke in denying the petition filed by Hayakawa, according to court clerk G. E. Bishel.

Typical Food Basket Price Up In January

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by a second straight month of rising farm prices, the cost of a typical family food grocery basket jumped $30, or 1.8 per cent, in January to a record annual rate of $1,680, a government report showed today.

The increase pushed the figure past the previous record of $1,653 set last August when the cost increased by $27, or 1.6 per cent.

The January figure of $1,680 was $305, or 22 per cent, above a year earlier. Further increases are probably in store.

Government economists predicted recently that food prices for the January-March quarter will average about 5 per cent above the last quarter of 1973, and that prices for 1974 as a whole may average 12 per cent or more above last year.

January's cost would have reached $1,697 if middlemen had not cushioned some of the shock for consumers by narrowing their margins, Agriculture Department experts indicated.

The retail price of the market basket went up for the third straight month following a two-month dip last fall, the report said. There were "particularly sharp" price hikes in farm prices for beef cattle, chickens, wheat, potatoes and tomatoes.

As a result, the farm value of foods in last month's typical market basket rose $47, or 6.6 per cent, on annual rate basis, biggest single gain since last August.

The increase was diluted before it reached consumers by a reduction of $17, or 1.8 per cent, in the marketing "spread" which represents total costs and profits for food industry middlemen, the department said.

Sharply lower marketing spreads for beef accounted for most of the dip in the middleman's margin.

The market basket represents the cost of a selection of U.S. farm-produced foods needed for a hypothetical household averaging 3.2 persons for a year. Agriculture officials do not publish the figures, but furnish them on request in connection with a published monthly report on marketing spreads.

Rezoning Of North Ridge Will Allow Fewer Homes

By ERIK M. INGRAM

In a move to prevent large-scale development, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved rezoning nearly 550 acres of the North Ridge near Larkspur to reduce the number of possible homesites. (Another planning commission story, page 19.)

The rezoning, which must be ratified by the county board of supervisors, slashes the number of possible homesites from 800 to about 100 on the picturesque ridge separating Mill Valley, Larkspur and Corte Madera.

The county planning department, which initiated the rezoning, said the action was necessary to make the area conform with the county general plan, which designates it as "open space."

It was approved on a 5-to-0 vote, with commissioners Gloria Duncan and William C. Long absent.

Preservation of the North Ridge as a greenbelt between communities has long been sought by area residents. It was a force in the formation of the county open space district which lists the ridge high on its shopping list for acquisition.

The area sought for preservation totals about 1,500 acres, of which 550 acres outside city limits were approved for rezoning yesterday.

Larkspur City Councilman Joan Sestak yesterday called for greater coordination between the cities and county in rezoning the lands. She said the Larkspur City Council endorsed low-density zoning for the ridge.

Mrs. Sestak added that her city is working toward a compatible zoning for ridgelines within its city limits. (There are about 360 acres in Larkspur, 550 in Mill Valley and 100 in Corte Madera.)

The action also drew support from Pam Lloyd of Mill Valley, among others, who urged in-

Tax Hike For Bus Service To Be Asked

The Marin County Transit District board agreed today to ask voters in June to increase the nickel property tax limit to 25 cents to expand local bus service.

The 5-to-0 vote came without discussion and caught director Robert A. Roumiguere out of the room. Roumiguere, who has opposed the tax rate election proposal, said later he would continue his opposition.

Today's action was a mere formality since the transit board voted earlier this month to approve wording for the ballot, thus indicating they would approve placing the measure on the June 4 ballot. (Roumiguere also opposed that action.)

He said today that asking voters to increase the tax rate limit — which would add $1,600,000 in revenue next fiscal year if the full tax rate is levied — "is premature."

Roumiguere said negotiations with the Golden Gate Bridge District, which operates not only local buses but transbay buses, first should be completed to determine how much Marin will be charged for local passengers who board and get off transbay buses without leaving the county.

Congressional Pay Hike Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate committee voted today to block an automatic 22.5 per cent, three-year pay hike for members of Congress.

But the panel decided to permit the raises to take effect for 10,000 judges, political appointees and high-level civil servants.

The issue will go to the Senate floor late this week or early next week.

Ervin Claims Five Unobtainable Tapes Needed For Dean Check

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Only by listening to five so-far unavailable White House tapes will the Senate Watergate Committee be able to tell if former White House Counsel John Dean "testified truthfully or otherwise" about talks between himself and the President, says Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

Ervin, whose Senate committee yesterday asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to order the five tapes made available, said access to them is "very crucial to the determination of what the credibility of John Dean is."

The tapes, he said here yesterday, "will show whether John Dean testified truthfully or otherwise before the Senate Watergate Committee when he testified that on those occasions he informed the President about the Watergate cover-up and the President made statements that John Dean says indicated the President favored the Watergate cover-up."

The conversations are included in tapes of meetings held between Sept. 15, 1972, and March 21, 1973.

The committee's request for the tapes was contained in a 40-page brief supporting its appeal of a district court refusal to provide the recordings.

Ervin, whose Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights has been holding hearings on legislation to ban the practice of busing to promote racial integration in schools, said it is "not achieving equal education.

Brown Tops Democratic Gubernatorial Choices

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Voter preference for six Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls hasn't changed much in the past six months, the California Poll said today.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said a poll taken between Feb. 2-11 found Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. leading San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto by more than a 2-1 margin.

Some 46 per cent of the Democrats polled favored Brown, while only 20 per cent said they preferred Alioto, Field said. In a similar poll last August, 42 per cent supported Brown and 22 per cent Alioto.

Assembly Speaker Robert Moretti appeared to have gained support, although he remains in third position with a 14 per cent share of the Democratic vote, Field said. This compared to a 9 per cent share last August.

Three other candidates, Congressman Jerome Waldie; Herb Hafif, former head of the California Trial Lawyers Association; and UC Regent William Matson Roth of Ross, received only 5 per cent, 2 per cent and one per cent respectively, the poll said.

Despite considerable media attention, "it appears the candidates campaign efforts and surrounding campaign activities have not yet had much impact on the statewide public as a whole," concluded Field.

Senate Panel Is Continuing Bid For Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Continuing its seven-month attempt to get President Nixon's tapes, the Senate Watergate committee says they "would prove of immense, perhaps decisive, value in determining the extent of malfeasance in the executive branch."

The committee filed a 40-page brief in the U.S. Court of Appeals yesterday, arguing for a reversal of a ruling by District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, who refused to order Nixon to yield the tapes.

"The committee has received conflicting evidence as to the extent of wrongdoing at the pinnacle of government, much of it through testimony authorized by the President himself. As our statement demonstrates, there has been serious, potentially credible evidence presented to the committee tending to show that the chief executive himself was engaged in wrongdoing," the brief said.

"...This evidence, which bears directly on matters in dispute and appears the best evidence in that regard, would prove of immense, perhaps decisive value in determining the extent of malfeasance in the executive branch."

Gesell had ruled the committee's needs must be subjugated in order to avoid prejudicial publicity in criminal proceedings that are under way. Indictments are expected from the Watergate grand jury this week, and at least two trials have been set.

Accusing Gesell of following "an apparently new rule of law," the committee said: "The court has substituted its judgment for the legislature's as to the public need for production of these tapes."

"Where wrongdoing in the highest executive offices has possibly occurred," it said, "it is vital that Congress be able to consider intelligently the need for corrective legislation to prevent its recurrence."

The committee wants tapes of five talks between Nixon and then-White House Counsel John W. Dean III from Sept. 15, 1972, when the original Watergate indictments were handed down, until shortly before Nixon fired Dean April 30, 1973.

Watergate May Have A Benefit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American Bar Association's president says the Watergate scandals may have the "same long range and beneficial impact" as the Civil War.

Chesterfield Smith of Lakeland, Fla., the president, said yesterday he was proud of the part that U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica and others had played in the investigations.

"We have withstood this tremendous assault on the Constitution and shown that it is living," he said in remarks before students at Hastings College of the Law.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Mansfield Opposes Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a decision due by the middle of next week, Senate leaders have split on whether members of Congress, the Cabinet and the judiciary should get a salary increase.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he opposed any raise for high-level federal employees because "it would set a bad example."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he favored a pay increase but would not oppose postponing the raise for members of Congress until next January.

Mansfield said he could not predict the outcome of a Senate vote and Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd said it probably would be very close.

Queen Can't Vote

LONDON (UPI) — One of the drawbacks of being queen is you can't vote for the man who'll march into Buckingham Palace after election day and kiss your hand.

Queen Elizabeth, unlike the meanest of her subjects, doesn't have the right to vote in Thursday's national elections. Neither has any other member of the royal family.

In addition, they must observe rigid neutrality in deed and manner while dealing with the contesting parties in Britain's parliamentary elections.

The queen, however, has to be around when the results are in to see the new or old government properly installed.

Fierce Fighting

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian soldiers battled rebel troops last night in fierce fighting south of Phnom Penh. Field reports said 114 government troops were missing and 135 insurgents killed in a series of clashes.

The reports said some government troops, thrown into confusion by a rebel attack under cover of darkness, fired on their own forces in one battle 4½ miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

One government soldier was reported killed and six wounded by their own forces in the fighting near Phum Chong Prek. In addition, the reports said 114 Cambodian troops were missing and believed captured in the fighting.

Office Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — A bomb exploded today outside the Belfast offices of a mixed Catholic Protestant political party and heavily damaged the building, the army said. No one was injured.

In addition to offices of the Alliance party, the blast also hit nearby private homes. A telephone caller warned a newspaper of the bomb only two minutes before it exploded, not allowing enough time for the area to be evacuated.

Protestant rioters burned buses last night, climaxing a day of Northern Ireland violence in which a bomb wounded 13 persons in a Roman Catholic-owned tavern.

Nuclear Test Set

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission will detonate an underground nuclear explosion tomorrow which may sway high rise buildings in Las Vegas.

Two mills, two mines and a club in Beatty, Nev., will be evacuated just before the explosion occurs at 10 a.m. PIT, the AEC said yesterday.

"Little, if any, property damage is expected outside the test site area," the AEC announcement said. "But managers of high rise structures in Las Vegas are being advised not to have workers in precarious positions at the time of the detonation."

For the first time since July 8, 1971, newsmen will be allowed to witness the blast, code named "Latir."

Troop Drug Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Loneliness and frustration among GIs assigned to Europe, and the slum-like condition of their barracks are the leading psychological factors behind serious drug abuse, says Gen. Michael S. Davidson.

Davidson, the U.S. Army commander in Europe, told a House Armed Services subcommittee yesterday that the problem may not be quite as bad as he indicated in a court affidavit 10 days ago. But he said it has contributed to declining readiness and creation of a "sullen," undisciplined U.S. force in Germany.

Only in the past five months has the situation begun to turn around, he said, because of a Draconian program of unannounced searches and all-out judicial and administrative measures against drug pushers and abusers.

Prisoner Pact

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong and Saigon negotiators reached an 11th hour agreement today to free all remaining Vietnamese prisoners of war by March 6, a government military spokesman said.

A 90-minute, face-to-face discussion between chief military negotiators broke a deadlock that had threatened to keep more than 1,000 POWs in prison indefinitely.

NIXON EXPECTS TO FINISH TERM

Doesn't Believe He'll Be Impeached And Has No Intention Of Resigning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon again last night took a tough Watergate stand—narrowly defining the grounds for impeachment and declaring: "I do not expect to be impeached."

It was the President's first televised news conference since last October. He appeared confident, but grim at times during the 40-minute news conference, during which he discussed his future in office, his taxes, the energy crisis, and his party's prospects in view of Watergate.

The President revealed that he had been asked to testify before a federal grand jury investigating the Watergate scandals but said he had "respectfully declined" on constitutional grounds.

Instead Nixon said he offered to meet personally with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski or to answer written questions. But he said Jaworski "did not want to proceed that way."

Reliable sources said the unprecedented request for Nixon to testify came on "direct instructions" from the grand jury which offered to meet the President at the White House or the U.S. District Court House.

In a preview of a brief his lawyers will file with the House Judiciary Committee, Nixon narrowly defined the ground for impeachment as a "criminal offense on the part of the president."

His view clashes with a study by the committee's legal staff that a president can be impeached for failing to fulfill his constitutional duties and violating his oath of office.

"It is my belief that the House, after it conducts its (impeachment) inquiry, will not reach that determination," he said. "I do not expect to be impeached."

Nixon hedged on whether he will cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee's request for White House information. He said he would do nothing to weaken the presidency, to compromise the rights of Watergate defendants or to impair the special prosecutor's case. In short, he indicated that the kind of cooperation the panel is seeking will not be forthcoming without a fight.

On the political front, Nixon repeated that he will not resign even if the Republicans meet "disastrous defeat" in the November congressional elections. "I want my party to succeed," he explained, "but more important I want the presidency to survive."

"We have a lot of work left to do, more than three years left to do it, and I am going to stay here until I get it done."

He issued an implicit call to GOP candidates to stay in his camp even if they have to run against Democrats calling for Nixon's impeachment or resignation. He said he wanted "deserving" Republican candidates to win, and he recalled that when the GOP made President Truman the issue in 1948 after Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., called for Truman's resignation, the party "took a very bad licking."

"I think it will be a very good year for those candidates who stand for the administration," he said.

Nixon told reporters that he had no knowledge that his personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach Jr., offered an ambassadorship to J. Fife Symington Jr., of Lutherville, Md., in exchange for a $100,000 campaign contribution in 1970.

Kalmbach pleaded guilty earlier yesterday to two violations of election laws, including the offer of the ambassadorship to Symington after he got approval from an unnamed White House aide.

"Ambassadorships have not been for sale, to my knowledge," Nixon said. "Ambassadorships cannot be purchased. I would not approve any ambassador unless the man or woman was qualified—clearly apart from any contribution."

Nixon, choosing his words with great care, began with an opening statement on the energy crisis, predicting that the long lines leading to gasoline stations would grow shorter this spring and summer, that rationing would prove unnecessary but that gasoline prices would remain high.

"We have now passed the crisis," he said, but "the problem still remains and it is a very serious one."

He also forecast a lifting of the Arab oil embargo with the movement toward peace in the Middle East, but didn't say when.

A PARODY ON WATERGATE

Watergate continues to be fodder for political satire. In the annual Rose Carnival parade in Mainz, Germany, yesterday, one political float depicted President Nixon in a boiling pot labeled "Watergate," which had burning tapes for fuel. The figure is bent over and grasping a fire extinguisher with a "defective" tag on it. The float carried the sign "Some Like It Hot."

Tiburon To Go After 'Families' Halt In Tiburon Project Ordered Because Of Buildings' Location

Tiburon will study just how many unrelated people make up a "family" and how many of them can legally occupy one single-family house, the city council decided last night.

Troubled like officials in other Marin cities by the problem of an increasing number of homes filled with large groups of single people, councilmen voted 4-to-1 to begin studying the issue at the planning commission level.

Councilmen suggested that the zoning ordinance might be amended to limit the number that could be defined as a "family" or that there might be stricter enforcement of the present ordinance.

About 15 residents showed up to ask that the city act about large group households which they claimed were creating traffic and parking problems.

"On Reed Ranch Road, five out of six residences in one area are being operated as communes," said Mayor Brannwell D. Fanning. "The street is jammed on both sides with cars and buses."

Dr. Thomas Reilly of the Reed Ranch Road area urged the council to impose a strict fine on landlords who violate any new laws the city may pass. "Most of these landlords don't even live here. One's in New Jersey, others are in San Francisco. Meanwhile, we have eight, 10, sometimes 15 people living across the street."

Councilman M. Carlisle Becker cast the only dissenting vote against the council's motion. "We have enough controls now," he argued. "It's too difficult to define 'family' in a humanitarian way and also control abuses."

Seats Blamed

BLYTHE (AP) — The California Highway Patrol said today poorly secured seats helped cause the deaths of 19 persons last month when a farm labor bus crashed into an irrigation ditch, but that the way the seats were fixed did not violate any legal safety rules because none exists.

An apartment project in Tiburon will stand half-finished indefinitely because neighbors claim that the buildings in the complex are being built in different spots than was originally promised to the city.

The Tiburon City Council last night upheld a stop-work order on the project issued recently by the city manager and referred the matter to the planning commission to decide whether developer Hal Lever of Tiburon can go on with his plans.

Architect Asa Hanamoto said last night that two structures in the three-building complex at 48 Lyford Drive had been put on sites different from those shown in drawings which the planning commission originally approved in 1973.

"The soils reports showed an ancient fault running through the property, and the buildings had to be moved away from the fault," he said.

But Hanamoto claimed that Planning Director Richard G. Arjo, who since has left the city, had approved the changes before granting a building permit.

Neighbors objected that because the buildings were shifted, their bay views were being cut off.

"The approved height of the buildings is being completely disregarded," said Earl Hanson of 2 Redhill Circle.

He showed photos to indicate that the building was blocking views in the area.

"I never expected to look at a wall when I bought my place," said Don Henderson of 62 Lyford Drive.

The council voted 4-to-1 to return the matter to the planning commission with only M. Carlisle Becker voting "no."

The Tiburon City Council Also:

DOWNTOWN BUILDING — Agreed that downtown property of Fred G. Zelinsky of Belvedere located southwest of Tiburon Boulevard does not need a new master plan but that his property northeast of the boulevard does. The planning commission had told Zelinsky it would not consider plans for any of his property until he came up with one plan for all his downtown acreage.

EMPLOYEES — Granted a request by city employees that they be represented by the Marin Association of Public Employees.

CONDOMINIUMS — Postponed for more study a new ordinance requiring stricter limitations on building of condominiums and the conversion of apartment complexes into condominiums.

RING MOUNTAIN — Endorsed unanimously the Ring Mountain Advisory Committee's report which now goes to Marin supervisors for approval. The committee report outlines future land uses for Ring Mountain, a large ridge of land on the Tiburon Peninsula.

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT — Agreed to extend the deadline for submission of an environmental impact report for the Sequoia Pacific proposal for downtown Tiburon until April 1. Representatives of Madrone Associates of San Rafael, the firm working on the report, estimated that report hearings probably will start at the end of May.

UNDERGROUNDING — Referred to staff for more study a project to underground utilities between Rock Hill Road and San Rafael Avenue along the Tiburon bicycle path.

WATER TANK — Endorsed a proposal from Marin Municipal Water District for a new water tank location on the Paradise Drive side of the Tiburon Peninsula above the Tiburon Net Depot.

MINIPARK — Approved plans for a $5,000 lot in Belveron.

TENNIS COURTS — Approved a set of rules for use of the new city tennis courts at Del Mar School. Agreed to a proposal that residents should be asked to buy at $5 per family magnetic cards which will admit them through the court gates.

Two Arrested In Heroin Raid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two men were arrested and 26 pounds of heroin with a street sale value of $7.8 million were seized in a raid on a Bronx "cutting mill" last night.

In what was described as the third largest drug raid in the city's history, special city narcotics prosecutor, Frank Rogers, said federal and city narcotics agents found the heroin behind a magnetically operated false closet in a Bronx apartment.

Anthony Verzino, 42, of The Bronx, and Frank Caravella, 37, of Manhattan were arrested for heroin and gun possession.

Lyford-Dickey Tour Hours Are Changed

Starting Saturday, the Lyford-Dickey Mansion at the Richardson Bay Audubon Wildlife Sanctuary will be open to visitors from 1 to 4 p.m. only on Saturdays and Sundays, according to Philip P. Schaeffer, manager.

Schaeffer said hours had to be reduced because of a lack of volunteer guides.

'Hot Line' Phone Help Begins For Novato Teens

A "hot line" telephone service for youth has started in Novato, according to volunteer coordinator Dyanne Bohner. The program, sponsored by Kids in Need Seek Help in

People, will provide youths "with a telephone number they can call to talk about whatever is concerning them," she said. The telephones are staffed from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with an answering service at other hours. After a second group of volunteers completes training Saturday, the telephones will be staffed from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. The "hotline" number is 897-9033.

Anyone interested in serving as a volunteer should notify the Novato Human Needs Center.

Gold Theft Suspects Arrested

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Six persons were arrested at Reno International Airport Sunday in connection with what federal officials think may be a gold theft operation in excess of $500,000.

The six were charged with illegal possession of gold in the form of 57,000 ounces of gold concentrates, described as finer than gunpowder and ready to be melted into gold bullion.

A Secret Service spokesman said it was believed the gold was taken from a large open pit gold mine near Elko in eastern Nevada.

Among those arrested was gold dealer Paul H. Norboe, 61. Douglas Duncan, regional special agent in charge of the U.S. Secret Service, said Norboe had $15,000 in cash with him when the other men led agents to a rendezvous.

The other men were employees of the Carlin Mine in Carlin, Nev.

They include Marvin J. Rassmussen, 42, the chief assayer at the mine, and Samuel Gallegos, 29, a shift boss.

Agents said they seized $45,000 in cash at Rassmussen's home and 10 ounces of gold at Gallegos' residence, both in Elko.

Also arrested were Donald Copen, 23, David L. Snowberger, 29, and William S. Bennett, 39.

They were to be arraigned today.

Novato Firemen To Hold Dance

The Novato Volunteer Fireman's Association will have its 43rd annual dance March 9 at the Novato Community House.

The dance, starting at 9 p.m., will benefit the association sick and welfare fund for volunteer firemen.

The Funky Country Colts, a four-piece band, will play.

Volunteers made preparations for the dance at their Monday night meeting.

McCarthy Sees No Direct Involvement

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Former U.S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy yesterday said "it is a little hard to find direct evidence of involvement" by the United States in the military takeover in Chile. But he added: "Maybe the more prudent way of allowing it to happen was followed."

McCarthy, who teaches at the New School for Social Research in New York, spoke at a private meeting on "The Political Situation of Chile" organized by the Transnational Institute, an affiliate of the Institute of Policy Studies.

To Discuss Law

A proposal for a Mill Valley ordinance which would tighten the city's control over tourist-oriented businesses will be discussed by the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce at a breakfast meeting at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the Be Here Now cafe on Sunnyside Avenue, according to John Freschi of the chamber.

"stopped by Egyptians and it is still in Egypt now. We don't know where it is exactly."

A UJA spokesman in Jerusalem said the tourists are part of the organization's Young Leadership Group and that all are in their 20s and 30s.

A military spokesman said there may be as many as 40 persons aboard the bus. The UJA spokesman said all the Americans are male and are staying at a Tel Aviv hotel.

The bus headed westward toward the canal down the Tassailmaia road where it stopped near the U.N. buffer zone so the passengers could get out to snap pictures, the military spokesman said.

When they got back aboard, the driver was unable to turn around because of the sandy shoulders off the two-lane blacktop road. U.N. personnel permitted the bus to pass their barricade so the driver could find a place to make the turn, the spokesman said.

The driver went too far, he said, and wound up in Egyptian territory where Egyptian soldiers stopped the bus. He said the buffer zone is only about a mile wide at that point.

The Egyptians captured the area in the October war.

The command said Israel appealed for the return of the bus and its passengers at a forward command post of the U.N. peace-keeping forces in the Ismailia area. Israeli and Egyptian liaison officers are at the post.

The appeal was made in accordance with a clause in the Israeli-Egyptian troop disengagement agreement that specifies the return of all persons who inadvertently stray into enemy territory.

A communique issued by the command said the bus driver took the wrong road and mistakenly crossed into territory the Egyptians captured in the October war.

Quentin Inmate Stab Victim

A San Quentin prison inmate was stabbed in the back yesterday, in the third such incident this month.

Leslie Henry, 31, of Los Angeles, was in good condition in the prison hospital today, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg.

Henry is quarantined in the South Block's A section, a confinement area. At 3:25 p.m., during feeding operations, he approached a guard and said he'd been stabbed. No weapon was found and no suspects have been identified, Nyberg said.

Henry is serving sentences for grant theft and parole violation.

Soviets In Peru Pose No Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials do not appear concerned about the first-ever entry into South America of Soviet military technicians.

Pentagon officials reported yesterday that two or three Russian technicians are in Peru to train Peruvian soldiers in the use of Soviet tanks bought last year.

Peru is the only Western Hemisphere nation, apart from Cuba, equipped with Soviet weapons.

bank of the Suez Canal. Israel has asked that the bus, similar to the one shown, be returned through the U.N. peace-keeping forces.

Honor Breakfast For Whistlestop Helpers Set

Forty Marin County organizations and persons who helped the Marin Senior Coordinating Council create the Whistlestop senior citizens center will be honored at an awards breakfast Friday.

The breakfast will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Whistlestop, 930 Tamalpais Avenue, San Rafael, according to Edward T. Ryken, executive director for the council.

Special awards for helping the center and its new Whistlestop Meals kitchen will be presented to San Rafael Elks Lodge No. 1108, all of the Rotary clubs in Marin, the Soroptimist Club and the Eagles' Past Presidents' Club.

Ives Will Be Featured By Youth Orchestra

Marin's Orchestra Piccola will perform a Charles Ives Centennial concert at 8 p.m. March 7 in the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium in San Rafael.

Hugo Rinaldi will conduct works by the American composer.

Pianist John Kirkpatrick will perform Ives's Second Piano Sonata, "Concord, Mass., 1840-60." Kirkpatrick is professor of music at Yale University and curator of the Ives collection there.

The Piccola was selected for the Centennial concert by Donald J. Mangus, national president of the Ruggles-Ives Foundation.

Reinecke Against Gas Borrowing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has called on federal Energy Director William Simon to refrain from allowing states to borrow on future months allocations of fuel.

In a telegram to Simon yesterday, Reinecke, chairman of the state Energy Planning Council, said the decision to permit 18 states to borrow on future fuel allocations could lead to more severe shortages later. California was not one of the 18 states.

"Such reallocation would, in effect, penalize those states that have effectively controlled the use of their allotment to meet necessary needs and would reward those that have not," Reinecke said.

An Old Mine Is Explosive

MIAMI (AP) — A rusty old naval mine used as salty decor at a popular seafood restaurant blew a crater six feet deep and 20 feet wide at the county's bomb disposal dump, officials say.

A customer at Monty's Conch Bar kicked the four-foot thick sphere last week and three chunks fell out, police said yesterday.

Police bomb expert Newton Porter said the 90-pound chunks were an explosive similar to TNT and he had it gently removed to the bomb dump where it was detonated.

Toll Hike Opposition Abandoned

I-J Special Report
SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco supervisors last night abandoned their plan to fight in court the toll increase due to go into effect Friday on Golden Gate Bridge.

They decided, however, to pursue their contention that directors they appoint to the board of the Golden Gate Bridge District must vote on issues in accordance with policy set by the supervisors. The city attorney was instructed to go to court for a decision on that point.

Although the supervisors opposed the 50 per cent toll hike to 75 cents, enough San Francisco directors of the bridge district voted for it to pass it.

Last week the supervisors had approved a resolution ordering the city attorney to challenge the toll increase in court. The action last night on a 5-to-3 vote withdrew this challenge.

A new resolution instructed the attorney to test in court whether the city's representatives on the bridge district board must obey supervisors' instructions on how to vote in bridge board actions.

Newman's Son Enters Innocent Plea To Charge

MAMMOTH LAKES (AP) — Preliminary hearing is scheduled April 1 in justice court for the son of actor Paul Newman, accused of assaulting a police officer.

Scott Newman, 23, a resident of this Mono County community, pleaded innocent to the felony charge at an arraignment yesterday.

Newman is also charged with drunkenness, disturbing the peace and destruction of jail property, all misdemeanors, and has pleaded innocent.

Knowland Rite Set Thursday

OAKLAND (UPI) — Funeral service will be held Thursday for William F. Knowland, publisher and editor of the Oakland Tribune and former U.S. Senate majority leader.

Knowland, who was 65, was found dead last Saturday outside his vacation retreat in Sonoma County, the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

The funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at the First Congregational Church in Oakland. Burial will be private.

Liver Transplant Patient Is Dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three-year-old Lisa Klingelsmith, who underwent a successful last-November liver transplant, died last night at Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, the hospital reported today.

Lisa, the daughter of Bruce and Charlotte Klingelsmith of Alden, N.Y., had been in the Sloan-Kettering center since her operation last November, except for one weekend at home last month.

depth study into geology, soil conditions and other environmental factors which would more precisely indicate the number of homes to ultimately be permitted on the ridge.

The lands have been zoned for years to allow one and two dwelling units per acre. Yesterday's action, if approved by supervisors, will change that to one unit for every two, five and 10 acres — the latter being the predominant zoning.

The bulk of the area lies west of Larkspur and forms a visual backdrop to Kentfield. Other small parcels are near Mill Valley and Corte Madera.

The action drew protests from several property owners, only one of whom was successful in having a seven-acre parcel removed, for the time being.

Louis Ables, who owns seven acres at the end of Murray Avenue in Kentfield, won a delay until a land division he had earlier requested is considered.

The major parcel to be approved for rezoning is 177-acre Tiscornia Estate piece which includes King Mountain near Larkspur. Alice B. Vincillione of Larkspur, executrix of the estate, questioned the rezoning but did not strongly oppose it.

Stinson Beach Growth Panel Picks Leaders

Robert Tartaul and Peter Allen have been named co-chairmen of a citizens' committee that will study zoning changes to control growth in Stinson Beach.

The nine-member group will concentrate on preventing the proliferation of multiple-family dwellings, which has been predicted if a new sewer system and treatment plant are built, according to Proctor Jones, president of the Stinson Beach County Water District. The $2.3 million sewer system faces voter approval March 5.

In setting up the committee Saturday, water district directors also agreed to hire a septic tank expert for a study aimed at reducing the number of homes for which sewers must be installed, Jones said.

Innocent Plea To Charges Of Florida Murder

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI) — Suspended St. Johns County Manager Alan P. Stanford pleaded innocent today to charges he hacked to death former Broadway actress Athalia Ponsell Lindsley. A judge set his bond at $20,000.

The indictment alleges that Stanford, 49, "unlawfully killed with premeditation Athalia Ponsell Lindsley by cutting her with a knife commonly known as a machete."

Stanford, married and the father of three children, was making $20,000 a year as county manager before his arrest last Friday night. He lived next door to Mrs. Lindsley and her husband, former St. Augustine mayor James Lindsley.

State Taxpayers Bear Big Burden

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — About $33.2 billion of the proposed $304.4 billion 1974-75 federal spending program will be provided by California taxpayers, the state Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

Loran Vanderlip, director of the chamber's tax department, also said, "For all government purposes including federal, state and local governments, California taxpayers are dredging up an amazing figure of some $50.2 billion per year."

The chamber said the figures for California were based on allocation techniques for each major income source: individual income taxes, corporate income taxes, estate taxes, alcoholic beverage tax, tobacco tax, motor vehicle taxes, trust fund receipts and others.

Lagunitas Trustees Set Budget Talks

The Lagunitas School District board will begin a preliminary budget study, considering funding limitations under state law, at a meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Lagunitas School.

The board also will hold a closed session at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the hiring of personnel.

Judge Gives Six-Month Jail Term

A San Francisco man, who allegedly bought $2,000 worth of merchandise from Marin stores and billed it to a nonexistent company, was given a six-month jail sentence yesterday.

Harry Alexander Krawetz, 32, did the same thing in San Francisco and San Mateo counties and is serving 18 months for those crimes, according to a probation report.

In sentencing Krawetz, Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best decreed that the Marin jail term is not to run concurrently with the San Francisco and San Mateo sentences.

Even though Krawetz was successful in obtaining such merchandise as furniture, color televisions and photo equipment, he was allowed to plead guilty to two counts of attempted grand theft, and Judge Best dismissed two other counts.

Best ordered Krawetz to spend five years on probation and to repay the seven merchants, scattered throughout Marin, whom he defrauded.

Sentencing In Cocaine Case Set

I-J Special Report
SAN FRANCISCO — A Tamalpais Valley man is to be sentenced March 18 in U. S. District Court here, after pleading guilty to a count of distributing cocaine.

Dennis Gawland Scales, 32, originally had pleaded innocent to counts of distributing cocaine and possessing it for sale, but changed his plea to guilty on the first count, according to a clerk for District Judge Stanley A. Weigel.

Three other men were arrested with Scales last September, in a federal narcotics raid on a Mill Valley home. Gary L. McLaughlin, 28, of Spokane, Wash., also changed his plea to guilty of cocaine distribution, in court Feb. 15.

Judge Weigel also ordered McLaughlin to report for sentencing March 18. Trial of the other two men charged, both San Franciscans, was postponed to be set in March.

Guilty Plea Erases A Jail Sentence

A former Marin woman, Mary Jo Raymond, 49, has escaped a jail sentence on her guilty plea to welfare fraud.

But Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best ordered Mrs. Raymond, of Manteca, San Joaquin County, to repay $1,251 in welfare funds, which she illegally claimed, plus a $500 fine.

Declaring the offense a misdemeanor, Best placed Mrs. Raymond on two years' probation and suspended a 60-day jail sentence, which she must serve if she violates probation.

Mrs. Raymond was accused of concealing her employment in 1970 and 1971 in order to collect Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Z'berg Completes Driving Sentence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg spent a little over nine hours in county jail last Saturday to complete his sentence for drunken driving, jail records showed today.

Jailer Fred Reese said Z'berg, 47, was released Saturday a little short of the remaining 10 hours for the convenience of the jail because feeding time was starting.

Health Hearing

The League of Women Voters of Central Marin will hold a public coffee meeting from 10 a.m. to noon on March 6 at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael, to hear officials of the county's Community Mental Health Center. Speakers will be Dr. Robert L. Taylor, program chief at the center, and his deputy, J. Jay Shinohara.

OBITUARIES

MRS. KILBORN

Funeral for Frances I. Kilborn, a 25-year resident of San Rafael, was held today in San Rafael.

Mrs. Kilborn died Sunday in a local convalescent hospital after a lingering illness. She was 86.

Born in Minnesota, she taught school in Spokane, Wash. for many years before retiring and moving to Marin County with her husband, the late L. Duncan Kilborn.

She was a member of the Senior Coordinating Council of Marin, the National Retired Teachers Association, Washington State and Spokane retired teacher associations and the American Association of Retired Persons.

She is survived by two nieces in Washington.

Her body will be cremated and inurned in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

The family prefers contributions to the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

HUGH DANGERS

Hugh D. Dangers, a lifelong resident of Petaluma, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness. He was 60.

He was a driver for the Greyhound Bus Lines for 35 years, retiring six months ago because of failing health.

His wife, Dorothy Dangers, died last June.

Survivors include a son, Edward Dangers of Kailua, Hawaii; a sister, Arzelle Bollinger of Sacramento; his mother, Christina Dangers of Petaluma, and one grandson.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Parent Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Santa Rosa.

MRS. MACKEY

Memorial services for Letitia Mackey, 94, of Novato, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

Mrs. Mackey of 1000 Eighth Street died Saturday at a local convalescent home after a long illness. She was the widow of Edward Mackey.

She was a native of New Boston, Mich., and had been a resident of California for 22 years and of the Novato area six years.

Serving are two daughters, Nonday C. Payne of Novato and Peggy Wolverton of South San Francisco; a sister, Helen Pussey of Novato, two grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers that contributions be to the First Church of Christian Scientists, Novato.

LOT D. HOWARD

Dr. Lot Duncan Howard Jr., a San Francisco orthopedic surgeon and the father of George Howard of Fairfax, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. He was 65.

He was a native of Missoula, Mont., and a 1929 graduate of Stanford Medical School. During World War II, he served as a general surgeon in the Army Medical Corps.

Dr. Howard was formerly on the staffs of Children's Hospital, St. Francis Memorial Hospital, Presbyterian Medical Center and St. Luke's Hospital. He specialized in treating injured and malformed hands. In 1956 he was president of the American Society for Surgery of the Hand.

For 20 years Dr. Howard owned a ranch in Nicasio which he and his family used as a summer home. He sold the property about five years ago.

Other survivors include his wife, Elizabeth; two daughters, Mrs. Jeffery Johnson of San Jose and Mrs. Stephen Ferney of Salt Lake City; another son, Duncan Howard of San Francisco; a sister, Mrs. Maynard Morris of Santa Cruz, and four grandchildren.

Cremation will be private. Inurnment will be in Montana.

Sausalito Council Delays Vote On Waterfront Building Freeze

The final vote that would freeze construction along Sausalito's waterfront area for at least four months was postponed to March 11 last night by a member-shy city council.

Midway through resumed discussion on the moratorium which was unanimously supported by the council last Tuesday, Mayor Robin Sweeny asked the council to hold off on its vote until Councilman Evert Heyneman, absent last night because of illness, could be present. Mrs. Sweeny said that because an emergency ordinance requires a four-fifths majority to pass, all members of the council should be present for the final tally.

Ross Man Named To High Post

I-J Special Report
WASHINGTON — Thomas C. Reed of Ross has been appointed director of the Defense Department's newly consolidated telecommunications, command and control systems.

Secty. of Defense James R. Schlesinger said the consolidation, recommended by a presidential panel in 1970, was aimed at "improving the capabilities" of the Worldwide Military Command and Control System.

Reed, a nuclear physicist and Republican leader, joined the department last September as special assistant to the secretary. The 39-year-old Marinite directed President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign in four western states and served as Gov. Ronald Reagan's first appointments secretary.

He headed a mining and land development firm before joining the Pentagon.

Candidates Contend Few Issues

By LEW CODDINGTON
Environmental concerns dominated the thinking of the three candidates for the Larkspur City Council last night, but produced little disagreement among them.

Mayor Alfred J. Malvino, planning commissioner Charles H. Curley and Joi Losee agreed on a variety of issues at a candidates' night program at The Tamalpais retirement residence in Greenbrae.

They are campaigning for two seats in Tuesday's election. Malvino is an incumbent and Neil R. Brixon is not seeking reelection.

All three candidates opposed the proposed regional shopping center, agreed that Larkspur must work with other city governments to solve regional problems, fretted over the fate of the North Ridge open space and reluctantly accepted the prospect of the planned ferry terminal.

The $55 million shopping center proposed for the Bon Air region by the Rouse Co. of Maryland and Connolly Development Co. of Oakland drew varied opposing arguments.

"I favor broadening the tax base," said Malvino, 57, "but I cannot at this time state my support for the project because a final environmental impact report has not been made. So many environmental concerns must be looked at."

"This project is bigger than Northgate," said Curley, 38. "I oppose it as presented, but as a planning commissioner I can't comment on any future proposals which might be made."

"It's a disaster," said Mrs. Losee, 35, "especially since it's right near the ferry terminal" planned at the foot of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

As alternatives, Mrs. Losee favored office buildings, Curley proposed "mixed use, something like Strawberry," and Malvino said a citizens advisory committee to the council was looking at other ideas.

Regional cooperation on common problems is necessary, the candidates agreed. "The Lower Ross Valley is one geographical unit and one pollution-trapping basin," said Mrs. Losee. "We can't afford not to work together — there's too precious little left," said Curley.

Curley cited traffic problems which would result from construction of the shopping center, the ferry terminal and

Genesis Gallery Sets New Show

The Genesis Gallery on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley will feature a new show beginning Saturday and running through March including the works of painter Bettyjo Norton of Lakspur, photographer and ceramist James Fowler of Kentfield and weaver Matilda Franz.

The gallery is open from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Corte Madera's proposed Hahn shopping center and possible expansion of the existing Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Malvino favored merging the fire and police departments of Larkspur and Corte Madera and said he was directed by the council to meet with officials of San Rafael, Mill Valley and Corte Madera when those cities complete their general plans.

The open space in North Ridge could become endangered within a year when the current, final moratorium on building expires, Malvino said. Larkspur must plan ahead to that moment to prevent development, the candidates agreed.

Malvino said an ad-hoc citizens committee is studying the problem, and added that creating a county service district may be the solution. Curley said that if all else failed, a city bond issue would be a good idea, and "I would gladly pay $12.50 a year to preserve North Ridge" (based on a $3 million bond issue with a 20-year duration on a home assessed at $50,000).

The Golden Gate Bridge District's planned ferry terminal, which Larkspur cannot ban, was disliked by all three candidates because of potential traffic problems, but all found silver linings.

Larkspur would receive sales tax benefits, unlike Daly City's relationship with the Cow Palace, Curley said. Bicycle paths and parks had been assured by the city government's vigilance, Malvino said. Dredgings from Corte Madera Creek would be used to improve nearby marshland, Mrs. Losee said.

Another potential election issue, the development of San Quentin peninsula, went undiscussed except for a statement by Malvino that he favored the proposed planned development district in order to achieve "strict controls" on building.

Curley said he favored building moderate income housing in Larkspur "so we don't become a middle-class ghetto." Malvino said the city's general plan allowed for it, but added that skyrocketing building and land costs, which have hiked the value of an average Larkspur house to $60,000, make it difficult.

Algerian Leader Arrives In China

HONG KONG (UPI) — President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria arrived in Peking yesterday to a "grand ceremony of welcome" by Chinese leaders, including Premier Chou En-lai, the New China News Agency reported.

The report monitored in Hong Kong did not say how long Boumedienne would stay in China or give a reason for the visit.

A VERMEER STOLEN — "The Guitar Player," a painting by 17th Century Dutch master Jan Vermeer with a value of $2.3 million, is the object of a reported $1.5 million food swap. The painting was stolen Sunday night from the Kenwood House Museum in London, which houses one of the city's greatest collections of paintings. (UPI Telephoto)

Phone Caller Asks $1.5 Million Grenada Food Swap For Painting

LONDON (UPI) — A man telephoned a London newspaper last night demanding $1.15 million in food for the Caribbean island of Grenada as ransom for a stolen painting by 17th Century Dutch artist Jan Vermeer.

The $2.3 million picture, "The Guitar Player," one of some three dozen surviving works by Vermeer, was stolen Sunday from Kenwood House, which holds one of London's greatest collections of paintings.

Police said the man, speaking in a thick West Indian accent, called the Guardian newspaper to demand food for "the people" of the newly independent island.

The caller said the food must be made available within 14 days or more paintings would be stolen. He said the Vermeer

Heath Says His Party Can Command Confidence

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath today slammed the resurgent Liberal Party as "irrelevant" and said only a government formed again by his Conservative Party would command world confidence to handle Britain's grave economic crisis.

"The Liberal party has no relevant wages and prices policy to deal with inflation, and this is crucial," Heath said.

He told his daily campaign news conference, "I do not believe the rest of the world would have confidence in the other parties to handle this critical situation. This is a major reason why we should have a Conservative government with the full authority of the people behind us."

Britain votes Thursday in a general election ordered by Heath after a 13-week slowdown by 269,000 coal miners followed by a national coal strike. The coal strike, now in its third week, plunged Britain into what he called the worst industrial crisis since World War II.

With opinion polls indicating a close finish between Heath's Conservatives and the Labor Party but with the small Liberal party surging up fast in a bandwagon drive, Heath directed much of his 11th-hour campaign fire against the Liberals.

"I do not think anyone who is thinking of voting Liberal knows anyone in the Liberal party, apart from one name," he said.

Hearsts Showing Effects Of Wait

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The lack of communication from the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst is taking its toll on the emotions of her parents.

For the first time since negotiations by tape recording and televised news conference got started, the Symbionese Liberation Army has gone more than three days without responding to publisher Randolph A. Hearst's efforts to win his daughter's release.

Hearst and his wife Catherine, described by their children as "just dried out, but hoping" maintained their own silence at the family estate in suburban Hillsborough. They notified the press they would have no further statements "until there is a major development."

The Hearst family is receiving some 600 letters a day from well-wishers offering support. Donations to the family and its food distribution project, called "People in Need," have passed the $100,000 mark.

The food giveaway originally scheduled to resume today was postponed until Thursday to give organizers more time to make arrangements and prevent the disorder and violence that erupted on the first day of the program.

Frustrated crowds saw food scattered in all directions and fights broke out Friday on the first day, when trucks arrived late at distribution points.

The SLA, a tiny terrorist sect which snatched the 20-year-old granddaughter of William Randolph Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4, threatened last Thursday to "break off negotiations" if its demands were not immediately met.

Self-styled "Field Marshal Cinque" of the SLA gave Hearst 24 hours to add $4 million of his own funds to the $2 million food giveaway financed by the publisher and the Hearst Foundation as a first step toward Patricia's release.

Hearst announced Friday the demand was "far beyond my financial capability," but the Hearst Corporation said it would provide the money after the girl was freed.

When yesterday passed without word from the kidnapers, three full days had gone by without a message from the SLA—the group's longest period of silence since Hearst responded to its tape recorded demands.

But FBI agent Charles W. Bates insisted it was too early to tell if the SLA had carried out its threat to "break off negotiations."

"There is no indication that they have broken off communication as they have threatened," said Bates. "I don't think we're at that point yet, certainly."

Two Deny Slaying Of Foster

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two members of the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) pleaded innocent yesterday to the murder of Oakland's black school superintendent last November.

Joseph Remiro, 27, and Russell Little, 26, were arraigned on charges of killing Superintendent Marcus Foster with cyanide bullets. Their preliminary hearing was set for April 1.

The two were taken across San Francisco Bay from San Quentin to the Oakland court house with handcuffs on their wrists and irons on their legs, but Municipal Judge Stafford P. Buckley ordered the bonds removed.

James Jenner, Little's attorney, protested that the suspects had been moved from an adjustment center at San Quentin to the Death Row maximum security facility and were occasionally put in the "hole" used for rebellious inmates.

"There are no lights. It's filthy. It stinks," Jenner said. "These men have not been proved guilty. They are being treated like convicts."

The judge said the attorneys should complain first to prison authorities.

Chamber Music Concert Slated

The next in a series of chamber music concerts sponsored by the Mill Valley Art Commission will be held Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Mill Valley Methodist Church on Camino Alto.

Performers will include violinist Daniel Kobiaka, a member of the San Francisco State University and San Francisco Conservatory faculties; Paul Hersh, viola player with the Lenox Quartet and faculty member at the conservatory, and cellist Laslo Varga, professor and conductor at San Francisco State University.

They will perform works by Beethoven, Dohnanyi and Brahms.

Gold Price Tops $175 An Ounce

LONDON (UPI) — Gold prices burst through the $175 an ounce barrier across Europe today. Silver prices also set a new record high and the value of the U.S. dollar declined.

In an explosive trading session on the big London exchange, gold opened $5 higher at $175 and kept climbing. Within hours, the metal touched $178.25 before settling down to be fixed at $177.25.

In Frankfurt, gold hit a record $178.18 at closing and jumped to $175 in Zurich.

The exodus from paper money likewise boosted silver prices to all-time highs. By mid-morning, this metal was up 21.6 cents at $6.504 in London.

A month ago dealers described $175 as the ultimate limit in gold prices and most said this level would never be reached. At the time, the metal was trading at what they called an unrealistically high range of $140 an ounce.

Dealers have said the price of gold is developing a momentum of its own, apart from outside factors such as mistrust of paper money.

"There's an almost total absence of sellers," one London dealer said.

The dollar declined on the two-tier Paris market to 4.86 French francs. Yesterday, the commercial dollar used in foreign trade closed at 4.94 francs while the financial dollar used by tourists and speculators traded at 4.96 francs.

The dollar opened on the Frankfurt market at 2.6620 West German marks, down from 2.6850 marks yesterday. In Zurich, the dollar was quoted at 3.0885 Swiss francs, down from 3.1135 francs.

The Brussels market opened the dollar at 40.56 Belgian francs, down from 40.67 francs.

One of the few bright spots for the dollar in the international financial markets came in Tokyo. There the dollar rose by 4.00 yen to close at 287 yen.

In London, the pound bought $2.31, up from $2.2950 despite the announcement yesterday of a record British trade deficit.

Mardi Gras Revelers Hamper Fire Efforts

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A small fire broke out in a combination restaurant-apartment building in the French Quarter last night, but to get to it fire fighters had to battle their way through stubborn revelers celebrating Mardi Gras.

More than a dozen mounted policemen and scores of officers on foot pushed the crowds from a nine-block area surrounding the three-story building on Bourbon Street. One policeman was cut on the leg when he was hit by a wine bottle.

The thousands of celebrators were here for the traditional parades yesterday and today to mark the day before the beginning of the somber, 40-day Lenten season.

"From where I was standing the flames were about to the second floor," said a witness, Edwin Michael Brackins, 19, of Key West, Fla. "I was standing there and I could smell it for about 15 minutes before the crowd started to move." The fire was put out quickly once firemen got to it.

a police spokesman said three persons were arrested, including the person who threw the wine bottle.

One holiday visitor was Nancy Hoover, a 22-year-old nurse from Boston. "What I really like about it is I can come down here and be as wild as I want because nobody knows me," she said. "It's great because I can just stay drunk the whole time, but that's not an indicative statement since I'm sober now."

"Here comes the Pony Express" is a call often heard by Mike Clinton, 12, as he makes his rounds delivering the Chico Enterprise-Record aboard a 30-year-old Shetland pony he bought for $10 after his bicycle broke down. A side benefit is that Sunny saves Mike from a lawn-mowing chore by keeping the Clinton's lawn trimmed. (UPI Telephoto)

Famed Mory's Tavern Loses Liquor License

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Mory's Tavern, the storied haunt of Yale men under fire by women's liberationists, lost its liquor license under a Connecticut Supreme court ruling today. The state's highest tribunal held that Mory's, the watering spot for Elms for 110 years and immortalized in the famous "Whiffenpoof Song" of 1909, fails to meet the legal definition of a club. Under the ruling, Mory's will have to reapply to the state Liquor Control Commission in order to serve alcoholic beverages. Unresolved by the decision is whether Mory's can retain its traditional restriction against women. When any new application is considered, however, the question of excluding women is likely to be raised by the commission, which has used its licensing powers to attack discrimination. Mory's was reorganized in 1969, about the time that Yale was opening its doors to women, and for the first time formally excluded women from membership. The court held that the self-perpetuating board of governors and the elimination of the right of members to vote placed Mory's outside the legal definition of a club. On Jan. 27, 1972, the state Liquor Control Commission, after a public hearing, revoked Mory's liquor license on grounds it failed to operate as a club and discriminated against women. The Court of Common Pleas determined that the commission erred in its finding of discrimination but upheld the finding on its operation.

16-Year-Old Is Winner Of Annual Pancake Race

OLNEY, England (UPI) — A 16-year-old local school girl raced to victory in the Shrove Tuesday pancake race today while the only American in the contest was tickled into defeat by other contestants. Sallyann Faulkner crossed the finish line in the pancake-flipping 415-yard race in a record 1 minute 1 second to win a check for $23 and a kiss from the local clergyman. The check was written in marzipan, a candy made of almond paste, on a pancake. Mrs. Virginia Leete, a grandmother from Liberal, Kans., ran far behind the leaders as the first non-Olney resident ever to run in the 25-year-old race. She said she was tickled in the ribs so much by fellow competitors that she had difficulty in finishing the race at all. "It was really fun," she said. "I got tickled. Everybody was laughing and I could hardly run."

Mrs. Leete, who has five

Marin City Man Back In Trouble

A Marin City man who is to be sentenced Monday for possessing stolen property was arrested again last night. Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing cocaine and stolen property was Henry Garrison Jr., 25, of 54 Cole Drive. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court. Garrison was arrested at 6:20 p.m. in the 300 block of Third Street in Sausalito. Police said a patrolling officer saw him standing on the sidewalk with two tape recorders, two stereo speakers and a record turntable stacked beside him. He told officers that he bought the gear from a pawn shop, but could produce no sales slip. Serial numbers on the equipment had been removed, according to police. Investigators said a subsequent search revealed a small packet of white powder believed to be cocaine in Garrison's wallet. Garrison recently pleaded guilty in superior court to one count of possessing stolen property in connection with his arrest last June 30 in Mill Valley. Loot from three residential burglaries was found in a pickup truck Garrison was driving, according to reports from police.

LEAVES NORWAY — Expelled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn bade farewell to Norwegian friends yesterday as he left Norway by train to return to Zurich, Switzerland. He said he still has not decided where he'll make his new home.

(UPI Telephoto)

Solzhenitsyn Still Undecided On Where To Make New Home

OSLO (UPI) — Exiled Russian author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn left Oslo by train today for a return to Zurich after spending three days exploring the possibility of settling in Norway.

In Stockholm, the Swedish Academy of Letters said Solzhenitsyn would come there Dec. 10 to accept the Nobel diploma and medal he was awarded in 1971 but did not accept for fear he would not be allowed to return to the Soviet Union.

Solzhenitsyn spent his last night in Norway seeing the film version of "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," the book which brought him to international fame 12 years ago.

"His impression of the film was favorable," said journalist Per Egil Hegge, a friend and translator of the author.

Another international celebrity was in the theater when Solzhenitsyn entered with Hegge at his side. But the author glanced blankly at actor

Sean Connery—the James Bond of the screen—and passed on. "Apparently he had no idea of who James Bond is," an observer said.

The 55-year-old author had spent the weekend touring the rugged Romsdals Fjord and Lillehammer regions in the Norwegian countryside where he was said to be considering settling on a farm.

Solzhenitsyn was briefed yesterday by justice ministry officials on residency rules for foreigners.

He went on television yesterday saying, "I've had great sympathy for Norway since my childhood. I think this is because of Norwegian literature and Norwegian music." He said he had not yet decided where to live permanently, however.

Sources in Moscow said Solzhenitsyn may settle in Switzerland, where he spent several days at the home of his Swiss lawyer before leaving for Scandinavia.

Solzhenitsyn planned to return to Zurich to wait for his wife, Natalya, and three sons.

Hegge has said that stiff tax laws on the funds Solzhenitsyn has accumulated in Swiss bank accounts might be a stumbling block to his settling in this country.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

A Push For Plea Bargaining

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill making it easier to use plea bargaining in felony cases has been passed by the Assembly despite objections by a Republican lawmaker who cited the case of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Assemblyman John Briggs, R-Fullerton, pointed to Agnew's case and said yesterday that "plea bargaining ought to be eliminated entirely."

"There are some Democrats and Republicans who thought the vice president got away with murder" when he used the plea bargaining process, Briggs said. "We shouldn't make it easier for people to cop out. We ought to be going the other way."

The bill (SB938) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, was returned to the Senate for concurrence in Assembly amendments on a 56-13 vote.

It would permit plea bargaining in municipal courts on felony cases. Currently, such cases must first be turned over to a superior court before plea bargaining can take place.

The measure is designed to reduce the logjam of plea bargaining cases in superior courts. It also would reduce the duplication of efforts in municipal and superior courts on such cases.

Plea bargaining is a process whereby the prosecutor and defense attorneys reach a compromise on a plea without a trial. Often it involves the defendant pleading guilty to a lesser crime than he originally was charged with.

Agnew pleaded no contest to an income tax evasion charge to avoid a trial on bribery charges.

SALARIES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The salaries of California's 120 legislators would be raised at the legal maximum rate of 5 per cent a year to $23,040 next year under a bill introduced yesterday in the Senate.

The measure (SB1762) was offered by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

Both assemblyman and state senators currently receive $19,200 annually, which will go up 10 per cent to $21,120 beginning Dec. 2. Under the bill, lawmakers would benefit from another 10 per cent raise, to $23,040, just a few days later on Jan. 1, 1975.

Legislators are constitutionally limited to salary increases of no more than 5 per cent a year. Beilenson's bill plus the December raise, which was voted in 1972, would mean a total salary hike of 20 per cent in four years.

equalling the legal limit of 5 per cent a year.

ratification on the Nov. 5 statewide ballot in the form of a referendum.

EQUAL RIGHTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A ballot referendum on whether the Legislature should reverse its ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment has been introduced by an opponent of the ERA.

"I am thoroughly convinced that the majority of the women in California are not in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment," said Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, when introducing his measure (AB3216) yesterday.

If approved, the measure would place the question of

TIRE CHAINS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate yesterday passed a bill designed to update California's rules on the use of tire chains on snowy or icy roads so motorists can take advantage of new developments in the industry.

Sen. Lawrence E. Walsh, D-Huntington Park, author of the measure (SB1609), said the state's current rules, adopted in 1959, allow only chains that can damage new radial tires.

New types of chains have been developed, he said, but are forbidden under the existing rules.

Therapist Conducts Seminars On Dreams

By PAT BARMES
"Nobody can interpret your dream but you. You can sometimes enlarge your understanding of your dream by sharing it with other people," said Ann Bernhardt of Tiburon, who leads dream seminars at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere and in Marin homes.

Dreams are important because they are one's own language. Dreams compensate for conscious life, where an individual lives out only one aspect, Miss Bernhardt believes.

Some women feel inferior. In a dream, the same woman has the world by its tail. The dream expresses the need to connect with underdeveloped parts of her personality, she explained.

"I try to get people into themselves to be the people they would like to be," she said.

THE 28-YEAR-OLD certified licensed therapist is a full-time graduate student at California School of Professional Psychology. Her field placement work is supportive therapy with kidney transplant patients at University of California Medical Center, where she also helps train physicians in psychological principles to help them relate to their patients, she said.

For the past two years the therapist has been leading an ongoing couple's dream group for professionals in psychology, who meet at one another's homes to dine and talk about their dreams.

This fall Miss Bernhardt began another dream seminar, one morning each month, sponsored by St. Stephen's Guild.

Before she starts working with a dream group, Miss Bernhardt believes she must make a safe place, a warm environment where there is trust, where people's identity is respected and where they will not have to perform or be judged.

The process is clean, said the therapist, who does not approve of "games," the members can share or not.

"Then it is safe to say something you have not said out loud to anyone. You try your thing that you have never done before. You have a safe space to try new things, created just by being human," she said.

The atmosphere is the most therapeutic thing. What is done is secondary, she believes.

MEMBERS SOMETIMES take one person's dream as its group dream to comment on, adding layers of possibilities of what it means. Drawing helps them express feeling and images in dreams, where language fails. Their art and sculpture become a new way to share the aspects of themselves that they were unable to share in any other way, she said.

Miss Bernhardt was originally attracted to the field of psychology because she is hypersensitive, she said. At University of North Carolina, she studied child development and family relations because she wanted to know how normal people develop before learning about pathological states.

After her divorce in 1970 she earned a master's degree in counseling at Dominican College and then started a three-year doctorate program at California School of Professional Psychology.

In her dream groups, Miss Bernhardt draws on Gestalt, Jung and even some techniques of Malaysian tribes who use dreams to direct their living.

Frequently dream group members have a vivid or frightening dream. She asks them to put it into clay or draw it; then it does not seem so large or horrible as they thought. The results are always surprising, according to the therapist, who learned to use art during her own analysis.

"One tribal technique is to ask a frightening god or monster what he wants or what you can give him. It comes out that he is friendly and needs loving. He has a lot of power and energy," she said.

The common dream of falling is often interpreted as being out of control, she said. It may occur when someone is going to make a change and is afraid of drastic consequences. The therapist tells the dreamer to go on with the dream in imagination and find out what that new world she is falling into is all about.

"THE WAY people get rid of fear is to deny it, project it onto somebody else or rationalize it. But it remains, so the next time the dream comes they will experience fear," she said. She tells the dreamer to go ahead and experience the fear to get an awareness of everything that contributes to it. Then the dreamer can get a handle on it, a feeling of being in control.

In this kind of a group she also does some teaching because members want to understand Jungian theory, the going notions in psychology today and problems in living, she said.

"I try to know what they come to me with, what they are experiencing," she said.

For instance, she tells them that Carl Jung encouraged women to develop that masculine part within themselves. People can do both, without being either a masculine woman or a feminine man. In our culture men are allowed to express gentleness and their feelings, nurse a baby and be oving with children. As people grow, they develop in some areas and become lopsided. The beautiful part of being an adult is developing those other parts and having them work together instead of pulling in different directions, she said.

THE WOMEN'S liberation movement will become a humanistic movement, she believes. Adults should be free to develop parts of themselves without fear of criticism from their society.

"Adults must keep growing. It gives us something to do in this culture, which sometimes lets us feel we have bombed out at 19. Something in us has to be stirred to mature; it is the part of you that is stirred in the dream," she said.

Following lay analyst Erik Erikson's model, she listed the tasks of maturing — identity, intimacy, generativity and integrity and added Carl Jung's developmental task of individuation.

"From the stage of identity an adult gains the ability to make commitments. From intimacy he gains the ability to love. From generativity he is able to care. From integrity he gains a sense of wisdom and from individuation he gains self-fulfillment," she said.

Adolescence is the time of identity, but the task can go well into middle age in our culture, she said.

To achieve intimacy, a person must gain a sense of relatedness with oneself, others and the world, she said.

The task of generativity calls for creativeness, productiveness and a sense of purpose achieved by tangible contributions which can range from having children or working on the world's tasks to tinkering, she said.

INTEGRITY MEANS that one feels he has lived his life in the only way he could. This is better than a sense of despair and wanting to go back and undo, she said.

In developing an individual self away from relationships with others, some develop a religious or a spiritual attitude that speaks of the history of mankind. It is that beauty of old people to be very relative to the expanse of the universe, she said.

"Death can be an achievement, not in the sense of giving up but as something well achieved," the therapist said.

Nine Receive Citizen Honors

Good Citizen awards were presented to nine high school senior girls yesterday by members of the El Marinero Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Honored at the tea at the First Methodist Church in San Rafael were Deborah Lynn Monardo of Marin Catholic High School, Judy Rae Keyser of Novato High School, Melissa Busching of Redwood High School, Kathleen Fountain from San Marin High School, Debra Williams of San Rafael High School, Theresa Schepelman of Sir Francis Drake High School, Doree Louise Allen of Tamalpais High School, Mary Patricia Hiatt of Terra Linda High School, and Linda Thornton of Tomales High School.

Each girl was presented with a pin symbolizing dependability, leadership, service and patriotism.

Miss Monardo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Monardo of Mill Valley. She is vice president of the student body, and has been involved in student government all through high school. She is chairman of Liturgy committee, a member of the Emporium teen board, a convalescent hospital volunteer, a cheerleader, a member of the yearbook staff, and a homecoming princess. She plans to study nursing at either the College of Marin or the University of California at Davis.

Miss Keyser, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Keyser of Novato, will attend California State University, San Diego, to study dental hygiene. Sausalitan Runner-Up In Contest

Michelle Benjamin, 19, of the Sausalito Cruising Club, was named second runner-up in the Miss Yachting Contest held Saturday at the Pacific Inter-Club Yachting Association Headquarters in Oakland.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Benjamin of Mill Valley, Michelle is a sophomore at the College of Marin and works in the Mill Valley office of the Independent-Journal. She crews on her father's Columbia Challenger and is race committee chairman for five of the club's races.

Judged on her knowledge of sailing, personality and appearance, Michelle was declared princess of the Coronation Ball held later that evening at Metropolitan Yacht Club in Oakland. She will reign with Miss Yachting over opening day of sailing on San Francisco Bay April 28.

The winner is Annette Surtees, representing Palo Alto Yacht Club and the first runner-up is Barbara Brantley of the Spinnaker Yacht Club of Hayward.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Friend Arranges Blind Date With Cripple And She's Upset

RAP: When I visited a girl friend in Arizona recently, I asked her to get me a blind date, thinking she'd have good taste. The fellow looked and talked okay when we met at the club, but when we got up to leave, I discovered he was a cripple! I had to walk the full length of the room with a guy who limped terribly! My girlfriend was furious because I pleaded a headache, wouldn't go on to a party with him, and refused a date for the next day. Don't you think she was the one in the wrong? She should have warned me, instead of telling me only that he was "a great guy with a good personality." — SHORTCHANGED S. If he is a great guy with a good personality, his limp would only matter to a self-conscious snob. However, your girl friend should have "warned" you — for his sake, not yours. — SUE S. I think your girl friend should have warned this fellow about you. He may be crippled, but you're in worse shape — you've got a warped mind! — HELEN

DEAR RAP: This is for those girls who are desperate because of an unwed pregnancy. I went with a guy for three years, then got pregnant, even after taking precautions. Unfortunately he is in jail now (for robbery) and doesn't love me. So there I was, 17, and being urged to get an abortion, but life is more precious to me than that.

Parents are strange: they never think you're grown-up enough to make your own decisions. So they bombarded me with talk about adoption. I studied the pros and cons carefully. I talked to the adoption agency, talked with people who had given up their babies, people who had kept them, read books and saw special films about child care. I set a deadline to make a decision and tell my family — and the decision was: to keep my baby!

Here I am, 18 years old, work part time as a secretary, go to school at night, own my own apartment, and I have a beautiful four-month-old girl. Checking both sides of the situation was an educational experience, and it made my parents realize I was an adult. They're happy with my decision and with me, and I'm so very happy with my baby. — O.Y.S.

RAP: I'm a 14-year-old male with girl problems. I like Mary a lot. I'm going with her but we only see each other at school. Then Jane moved in next door, and I like Jane a lot too. She goes to a private school so I see her in the evenings and on weekends. Jane knows about Mary, but Mary doesn't know about Jane.

Both girls like me a lot. Jane says I shouldn't break up with Mary, just leave things as they are. Am I weird to sort of love two girls at once, and am I a two-timer? — HELEN

T.T.: No, you're not weird. I think "weird" is trying yourself to one girlfriend (or boyfriend) at age 14 when you should be having lots of boy-girl friendships. Jane has the right idea. — HELEN

T.T.: But Mary isn't going to be too happy when she hears about it. Maybe you should tell her before someone else does. — SUE

DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

Furniture Arrangement Should Consider Traffic

By EMILY MALINO Distributed by United Feature Syndicate

To most people, traffic patterns relate to cars and trucks on roads and streets. To a designer, a traffic pattern is the way we maneuver our way around the furniture in any given room.

Yes, Virginia, there is a sensible route for humans in any interior space, and the trick is to plan the furniture arrangement so that passage and sitting areas work together to form a logical, pleasing room.

This best of all possible worlds isn't always easy to achieve. I've seen the results of some frantic efforts to deal with traffic problems. One extreme is to place all furniture against each wall to keep the coast clear; at the opposite end is the crowded cluster, furniture arranged so that getting between or around a chair is a major obstacle course.

There are many rooms, particularly living rooms, where various doors and windows make it impossible to have a conventional furniture grouping using a wall as the background for a sofa. There is just no way to get from door to door or room to room without bisecting two seats; and trying to have a grown-up conversation with small children, dogs, or other relatives bursting through is downright discouraging.

In a living room I worked on recently, the fireplace wall, flanked by the arched passage to the bedrooms and a large sliding glass wall opening onto a much-used terrace made it imperative to revise our conventional ideas about seating.

I chose a free-standing grouping of sitting furniture arranged in a big "L" shape, which provides easy access to comfortable seating as well as a comfortable traffic flow around the group on all four sides.

To give a feeling of place to this floating cluster, I chose a modular, down-to-the-floor style that anchors the whole grouping firmly to the floor. A long table behind the group takes the place of a wall, and also provides a convenient surface for odds and ends, while a tall, arching floor lamp illuminates the table at the center of the cluster from its remote source of power.

Because there is a lot of traffic in this space, I used a low, level loop carpet in a practical charcoal grey, contrasting this with white latticed sliding panels, white stucco walls and a toasty wool upholstery.

Will Energy Shortage Bring On Baby Boom?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — As a result of the energy crisis and more staying home, will there be a baby boom in the United States?

The question is being discussed among family planning and medical specialists. A survey report of some of these shows that sexual activity apparently is destined to increase — in the period of shortages of heat, gas and electricity.

The report was assembled by Ardis Danon, Specialist in Human Sexuality, Marriage and Family Life Education at Parked, an outpatient abortion facility located in a skyscraper in New York.

Dr. John L. Schmel, associate director of the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, said, "As a result of the energy crisis, people will stay home more."

"Nine months after the black-out six or so years ago, the obstetrics wards were jammed. In India it's been found the most effective way of reducing the birth rate is to bring electricity to rural areas."

HARRIET F. PILPEL, attorney, population control authority and writer, takes another view. Some factors might lead to more babies. But if a recession develops, she said, history might repeat itself. Previously, during periods of recession and depression, people tended to use extreme care in preventing unwanted pregnancies.

Mrs. Pilpel also brought up the possibility of contraceptive shortages. Many of these are made from products of the oil industry.

Miss Danon talked about abortions, saying, "Before the energy crisis the availability and expansion of family planning services enabled many couples of all ages to learn that unwanted pregnancies could be avoided through adequate contraceptive measures."

"If these failed, the legalization of abortion reinforced the principles of private decision-making and self-determination. So should contraceptives become scarce because of the energy crisis, it will tend to strengthen existing abortion law."

"AMONG UNMARRIED females I think it may result in more selective sexual relationships," Alfred F. Moran, executive vice president of Planned Parenthood of New York City, be-celebration, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barone of Fairfax, was held Feb. 14 at Deer Park Villa restaurant in Fairfax.

The couple was married Feb. 15, 1914, in Gretna, La., and have lived in Marin County for 16 years. Barone is a retired San Francisco Municipal bus driver and was once honored as a Muni Man of the Month.

Among the 32 guests at the party were the couple's children, Angela O'Connor of San Francisco, Joseph Barone and Gloria Dawson of Woodacre and Jack Barone of San Anselmo. They also have 13 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

MRS. COLIN C. Wong of Tiburon is chairman of the seventh annual Gold, Silver and Ten Ball, which will be held Saturday evening at the St. Francis Hotel Grand Ballroom.

The ball is sponsored by the P and S Club, a group of alumni and friends of the University of the Pacific School of Dentistry.

KSFO radio personality Terry McGovern will serve as master of ceremonies for the formal dinner dance, which will have a "South of the Border" theme.

Other members of the committee for Marin are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Gilmour of Tiburon and Mrs. Benjamin C. Reinke of Greenbrae.

AN "INDOOR Picnic" was the theme of the luncheon which Mrs. Kenneth Logan and Mrs. Victor Wollmann gave Thursday at the Logan home in Sausalito. Sixteen guests attended, and the group went on to the Sausalito Woman's Club for a program and tea.

State Could Lose Oil Millions

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Controller Houston I. Flournoy said yesterday a new federal lid on the price of California's tideland oil could cost the state "hundreds of millions of dollars."

Flournoy, a Republican candidate for governor, said the action by the Federal Energy Office (FEO) amounted "to a direct subsidy to oil companies."

Flournoy told a news conference the FEO decision removed California's "exempt status on crude oil prices."

Currently, the state is paid for its state oil on the basis of a price of more than $9 a barrel. The FEO action would lower that to $4.20 a barrel.

Flournoy, chairman of the state Lands Commission, which photographs, complemented with English and French poems, will be displayed March 5 through 30. The Canada exhibition was produced by the Still Photography Division of the National Film Board of Canada.

June 27 Deadline Ordered For Initiative On Oil Firm Controls

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate leader James R. Mills today was given until June 27 to qualify for the November ballot a proposed initiative to subject the oil industry to regulation by the state.

The proposal, which requires the signatures of 325,504 voters, would place oil companies and their operations under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission.

In addition, the measure would limit annual retail sales of gasoline by major corporations and would cost an estimated $2 million to $3 million a year to administer.

has jurisdiction over tideland oil, said the decision means a loss of about $675,000 a day assuming the price of oil remained at $9 a barrel.

The controller declared the state could lose $233 million annually.

He said he would challenge the decision and had the support of Gov. Ronald Reagan. "It is inconceivable to me,"

Flournoy declared, "how federal energy czar William Simon's office could announce last Friday a two-cent increase in pump prices and at almost the same time roll back prices the states and local governments are allowed to receive for crude oil."

"This amounts to a direct subsidy to oil companies," Union Oil Co. has waged a campaign since last fall to place California tideland oil under the price controls.

Flournoy said the FEO decision was "Most unwise." But he added, "How it was brought about, I can't tell you."

He said the price of state oil is "insignificant in terms of affecting inflation."

"Removal of the exemption seriously affects California's ability to develop with nontax monies, mass transit, new hydroelectric generating plants and other job-creating projects," Flournoy said.

"The federal government's tinkering with price controls fouled up meat supplies and wages last year," Flournoy stated.

"This year, they are off to a good start with gas stations and state and local government crude oil sales."

Shasta County A Loser On Conflict Of Interest

REDDING (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Richard Eaton has ruled against Shasta County Assessor Robert McMillan's challenge of the county's conflict of interest disclosure ordinance.

Eaton said the county has full authority to require McMillan to disclose his financial holdings.

The judge said the law was not ambiguous as challenged in McMillan's suit and that it was not intended to single McMillan out.

The ordinance passed last month requires disclosure by the county assessor of all property he holds valued at more than $1,000. It was patterned after the state's conflict of interest law which went into effect Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, visiting Trinity County Superior Court Judge Harold Underwood took a county grand jury accusation against McMillan under submission.

On Jan. 23 the grand jury issued an accusation document charging McMillan with nine counts of misrepresenting and falsifying documents involving his personal home and businesses and county expense accounts.

Underwood said he would rule next week on whether the grand jury case is adequate.

Purse Snatcher Sentenced To A Year In Jail

An Air Force security policeman must serve three months of a one-year county jail sentence on his guilty plea to snatching the purse of a 75-year-old Mill Valley woman.

Albert William Vielbaum, 20, of the Mount Tamalpais Radar Station, drew the sentence from Marin Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best.

Vielbaum, who pleaded guilty to misdemeanor grand theft, also must pay a $250 fine and spend five years on probation, Best ruled.

The airman was accused of bumping into the woman on a Mill Valley street in November, grabbing her purse and running. The purse and contents were recovered and Vielbaum arrested behind a nearby apartment building, Mill Valley police said.

Concert Planned In Memory Of Voice Teacher

Former students of the late Gertrude Shenson Gruenberg, longtime chairman of the Dominican College voice department, will sing in her memory at a concert at 8 p.m. Friday at Angelico Hall on the campus in San Rafael.

Proceeds from the event will be used to establish a memorial scholarship fund, according to Mary Head, college public information director.

A champagne reception for persons who donate $15 or more to the fund will follow the concert.

Heading the long list of artists who will perform is Claudine Carlson, former member of the New York City Opera, and Melvyn Poll, now a member of the same opera.

The program will include songs by Ravel, operatic ensembles from "Don Giovanni," "Carmen," "La Traviata" and "Der Rosenkavalier," and solos and ensembles from several Bach works.

'Death Houses' For Elderly Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The elderly should not be shunted off to "death house" style homes, but should be integrated with the rest of society, an expert declared yesterday.

Dr. Roslyn Lindheim, University of California professor of architecture, said homes for older people are usually designed in such a way that they are discouraging the people who live in them.

Risk Of Injury Said Greater In Small Autos

CHICAGO (UPI) — Small cars may have immediate "economical advantages," but the risk of injury and death in automobiles is greater to the occupant of a small car than to the occupant of a large car, according to a National Safety Council study.

"Although small cars may have immediate economical advantage ... studies indicate that the risk of injury in automobiles is greater to the occupant of a small car than to the occupant of a large car," Vincent Tofany, council president, said yesterday.

The council said a New York State study in 1969 and 1970 and published in 1972 "indicate that an occupant of a 2,000-pound foreign subcompact is three times as likely to be killed or seriously injured as the occupant of a 4,800-pound domestic luxury car if both are involved in a 'typical' traffic crash."

Students Filming History Movie On San Rafael

Film students at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools are producing a movie on San Rafael history for screening during the city centennial celebration.

The movie, envisioned as a historical record of the city's last 100 years, is being financed by a $4,300 grant from Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co., according to school film instructor David Swingle.

Production of the film will encompass a broad spectrum of film techniques, he said. Students are currently writing a script for the 30-to-40-minute color and sound film, he added.

Swingle urged residents with old photos of the city, or with movie or film strips of San Rafael, to contact Barbara Rosenberg in the district office.

a numbness about the design of nursing homes," Dr. Lindheim said. "We think that if they look nice from the outside, if the lobby has carpeting, if there are two in a room instead of many, the situation is better."

Speaking at a meeting of The American Association for the Advancement of Science, the architectural scholar said she believes old people "are isolated because our society tries to isolate the fact of death."

"If death occurs outside the home and is only associated with the old, the sick, and takes place in institutions, then these institutions, no matter how you look at them, are death houses."

She said designers and planners should keep the old "in the mainstream" by encouraging them to do meaningful work and mingle with other generations, and live with their families.

STATEMENT OF POLICY REGARDING POLITICAL ADVERTISING

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group and their address.

All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the prevailing flat rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday by 4 p.m., Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning by 11:00 a.m. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

No responsibility to show printer's proof is assumed under the above schedule.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

It Was Poor Then; It Is Worse Now

Ten years ago, under pressure of a court order, the Marin County Board of Supervisors redistricted the county to conform to U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" guidelines.

The board had set up a supervisory redistricting committee headed by County Assessor Bert W. Broemmell and Winifred S. Fredericks. The committee had worked out a plan cognizant of geographical features and community of interest. However, it failed to sufficiently increase the population of the Fourth District. So the supervisors did not act on it.

INSTEAD, they adopted a last minute plan drawn by then-Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker which provided approximately equal populations in the five districts, but which gerrymandered the Fourth District as a sort of long-necked clam, with the body in Northwest Marin and the end of the neck at San Quentin Point. In the process it bisected three cities — Larkspur, Corte Madera and San Rafael.

The supervisors admitted it was not a good plan. They promised to review it in six months. But they approved it to meet the court order.

The court accepted the plan with reservations. Suit was brought by a Larkspur resident to prevent its going into effect. Another court, in dismissing that suit, held the plan was acceptable although it contained inequities.

IN THE DECADE that has passed since, nothing has been done about correcting what was admittedly a poor plan.

Welcome Home

Like all people who have animals, we felt some concern about our semi-tame raccoons when we took several weeks vacation in Hawaii recently. Would they be all right without our nightly handout? Would they recognize us when we got back? Would they be frightened

Nothing has been done despite the fact that there was a federal census in 1970, and the law calls for reviewing district boundaries after each decennial census.

The unsatisfactory district boundaries were allowed to stand initially because of election of Louis H. Baar of San Rafael to represent the Fourth District. Supervisors recognized that any reasonable plan, embodying geography and community of interest along with population, would leave Baar without a district, putting all of San Rafael back into the First District.

That reason — a personal political one at best — no longer exists since the Fourth District is represented by Gary T. Giacomini of Woodacre.

THE PRESENT districts no longer even meet satisfactorily the Supreme Court "one man, one vote" guidelines.

As of last Oct. 7, the First District had 23,651 registered voters; the Second, 22,899; the Third, 29,330; the Fourth, 18,852; the Fifth, 16,710. Thus the Third District now has almost twice as many voters as the Fifth.

There is no reason why the Marin County Board of Supervisors should not now appoint a committee to draw up new district boundaries to correct a plan that admittedly was makeshift when adopted a decade ago.

A new plan could be ready for adoption early next year — with no supervisory election coming up again until 1976.

We wonder why the supervisors continue to ignore this obvious need.

Drug Compounders Fight For Misleading Labeling

A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but does it cost the same? That is the essence of a legislative fight now in progress between drug manufacturers and California doctors and pharmacists.

In this one the docs and the druggists are on the side of the angels. They are battling the corporate giants in behalf of the consumers.

They are combatting the merchandising practices of the large drug manufacturers who market their products under a variety of labels. It is common practice for the manufacturer to market a certain pill under his own name while also selling it to others who package and label it under different names.

Consequently, identical products may appear under various names and at widely varying prices.

THIS PRESENTS a problem for the physician in prescribing, especially one who wants his patient to have the best product at the least cost. It also confuses the pharmacists in dispensing non-prescriptive items.

To solve the problem, the California Pharmaceutical Association, with the full support of the California Medical Association, ciation, sponsored legislation in 1971 requiring the actual manufacturer of drug products be shown on the label, regardless of who packaged and distributed the drugs.

This measure was passed by the legislature and signed into law by the governor. But because it required regulations to implement it, its actual effect was delayed. Despite the opposition of the manufacturers, the State Board of Health unanimously adopted new rules to be effective this coming June.

NOT WILLING to accept this turn of events, the manufacturers went to work on the legislature again, to repeal the 1971 law. They have succeeded in gaining Assembly approval of AB 1535 by Assemblyman Richard Hayden, R-Sunnyvale. It would nullify the 1971 act.

The manufacturers claim the law is unduly burdensome. They represent that the regulations would require the drug source to be identified even though he only supplied the chemicals.

But the regulation clearly states the identity sought is that of the person who mixed the "final ingredients." It includes words such as "encapsulated" and "tableted." It is aimed at the party responsible for the finished dosage.

Rather than submit to this requirement, the manufacturers are offering a counter-proposal wherein the makers would merely have to file the information with the State Department of Health. There, in the maze of government files, it would presumably be available to anyone.

THE MARKETING of one product under a proliferation of names may be sharp merchandising, but it hardly serves the best interests of the public. People may not mind such deceptions in the ordinary commodities but when it comes to medicines they have a right to know who put it together.

The issue is now squarely before the Senate. The question is: will the senators support their local doctors and druggists or will they succumb to the selfish interests of the manufacturers?

"How come a year of THIS wasn't enough?"

Who Are The People Represented By SLA?

As I listened to the most recent tape from the SLA to the Hearst family, I thought I was gone to get sick. They (SLA) say they are the voice of the people. Bull. I have not once ran across one person who says they like the SLA. I do not even know of one person who is even indifferent to the matter.

You may have gathered that I am a totally straight laced person, well that is not true. I am just an average person, my family is in an average income bracket, we live in an average house. I have many friends far to the right of me, and far to the left of me, and none of them like the SLA.

Who, I now ask, are the people the SLA supposedly represents?

Proposes Reward Fund For Kidnapers' Capture

To all the black people in Marin County:

I, whitey, Albert D. West, extend my sincere sympathy to you for what some irresponsible people of your race have done to destroy the progress that has been made in your cause.

As a retired postal clerk with 30½ years of service, I have had the pleasure and the privilege to have known and worked with many black people, and I have been proud to have been associated with them in the course of our work, and even as guests in their houses.

I am well aware of the discrimination and insults many decent blacks have suffered at the hands of whites as myself, and I apologize for our bad manners. If we all believe in a Deity, we must accept the fact that He chose to make you black and me white, but He also said, "Love thy neighbor." Neither you nor I chose to be born of the color with which we must go through life with.

The kidnapping of the Hearst girl is a crime, as is the ransom for her safe return. Color can not mitigate the punishment for this crime.

All terms first demanded were to be met, and then, like the usual pattern of the blackmailer, it was so easy, they decided to add new terms.

I would not donate a can of beans under these circumstances, but Mr. Hearst loves his daughter as you and I love ours. Because he is wealthy, he can afford to go along with the game. You and I couldn't.

I propose that, instead of us all helping to meet the ransom demands, we all volunteer to give whatever we can to make the biggest reward ever offered for the capture of a criminal, so that we can bring this whole thing to a speedy conclusion and go on with the business of trying to know each other better and learning to live in the fear and love of a mutual God.

I will contribute $100.00 to this cause to any lawful body that will accept it for the reward for any information that will lead to the capture of these criminals. Will you join me with a promise of a penny, a nickel, a dollar or whatever you think it is worth to clear the name of the decent honest black man that has been defaced by a few "wise niggers"?

It's Difficult For Reporters To Tell Good News From Bad

WASHINGTON — In his recent speech in Huntsville, Ala., on "Honor America Day," President Nixon said: "In the nation's capital there is a tendency for partisanship to take over from statesmanship. In the nation's capital sometimes there is a tendency in the reporting of the news — I do not say this critically, it's simply a fact of life — that bad news is news and good news is not news."

I couldn't agree with the president more.

But in fairness to the people reporting the news, the problem is not one of reporting bad news or good news but of knowing what is good news as opposed to bad news. When you work in Washington it's difficult to distinguish the difference, and what may sound like bad news to President Nixon is actually good news to somebody else.

FOR EXAMPLE, there was a special election in Grand Rapids, Mich., for Vice President Gerry Ford's congressional seat, and for the first time in 64 years a Democrat won. Now this was obviously bad news for the president, but it was good news for the Democrats. Had the press not reported this, they wouldn't know if they were suppressing good news or bad news.

Another example of the cloudy issue of good news and bad news is former Vice President Agnew's Secret Service detail. When the press played up the fact that Mr. Agnew still had Secret Service protection and had taken a flock of them to Palm Springs to stay with Frank Sinatra, this was bad news for the administration. But when the stories forced the White House to take the Secret Service away from Mr. Agnew, this was good news for the American taxpayer. Had the press

Atlantic Community Survives New Test In Mideast Crisis

The most important thing that happened on the world scene recently was the departure of the last Israeli soldiers from the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal, and the most interesting and encouraging feature of that departure was that the Israeli troops pulled out with cheers, not with anger or regrets.

Somehow the idea seems to have penetrated among Israeli soldiers, if not yet among all politicians in Tel Aviv, that this withdrawal is not the beginning of the end for Israel (as a lot of Israeli pessimists have been suggesting), but rather the beginning of the establishment of Israel as a good neighbor in the general community of Middle Eastern peoples.

This was progress toward the solution of an old problem which has long been troubling relations between Europeans and the United States, as well as between the United States and the Soviet Union. And it was not the only problem in this arena which is being tackled with vigor and is showing some results.

THE OUTBREAK of the fourth Arab-Israeli war last October sent a political shock wave through the Atlantic community. An economic shock wave followed when the Arab oil embargo drove all kinds of prices skyward. The combination of the two shock waves put such a strain on the community as it has not known since the United States sided with Russia against Britain, France and Israel in the 1956 Suez crisis. There was grave doubt then that the community could be put together again after that shock. There has been grave doubt since October that it could survive this latest crisis in which roles were so sharply reversed.

In 1956 a joint British-French-Israeli armed force attempted to seize the Suez Canal and topple Gamal Abdel Nasser, then the strong man and president of Egypt. The operation might have been a military success if the United States had not joined Russia in demanding an end to the attack. The British were leading the advance down the canal and were heading for Ismailia when American pressure forced London to abandon the project. Britain's then prime minister, Anthony Eden, had to resign to clear the way for a resumption of normal Anglo-American relations.

The Atlantic community was never quite the same again after that 1956 experience, but it did revive and survive. True, the old intimacy of World War II days between Britain and the United States was lost. But this cleared the way eventually for Britain to become more European and a member of the European Common Market. The results were not all bad.

NOW WE HAVE been through a similar shock to the Atlantic community. At the height of the crisis, Germany openly and officially ordered an end to the shipping of American weapons from German sea and airports to Israel. The British did the same, but silently. The ban was never announced. It was observed by the Americans. Britain and France had changed sides and supported the Arabs. The United States shipped massive quantities of new weapons to Israel.

A month ago the reverberations were still dominant. The Atlantic community was reeling like a skyscraper in a real earthquake.

Today the shock waves have subsided. The buildings are again steady. The fighting in the Middle East has given way to vigorous American diplomacy. The last Israeli soldier has come back across the Suez Canal and that waterway is once again entirely in Egyptian hands. And Washington, London, Bonn, and even Paris are beginning to talk together about the biggest single problem facing the whole of the Atlantic community — the finding of new sources of energy to counteract the enormous rise in the cost of Middle East oil to everyone.

AT THIS PHASE of affairs it is not certain that the European Common Market will survive. It is certain that the others will no longer be pushed around by the French as they have been in the past. A showdown is coming. The others are asserting themselves and their interests. The others are not willing to let the French lead them away from cooperation with the Americans.

But the others are today more aware of their community of interest with the Americans than before the October shock made them reconsider. As after 1956, the community has been sorely tested. But again it has withstood the test.

Two Congressional Elections Have Lessons For Both Parties

WASHINGTON — For the Democrats as well as for the Republicans, the two elections to fill vacant seats in the House of Representatives offer sobering lessons. The astonishing upset in Gerald Ford's old district in Michigan, safely Republican since 1910, was purely and simply Watergate and the moral stature of President Nixon.

In the 12th District of Pennsylvania the outcome was not so simple. The Democratic candidate, John P. Murtha, in a kind of tacit agreement with the Republican candidate, Harry Fox, did not exploit Watergate.

Concentrating on bread and butter issues such as high prices and the gasoline shortage, he spoke only by inference of Watergate and the president's standing.

Murtha won by 242 votes out of 121,260 cast. In a recount demanded by Fox this is being whittled down to a point at which the Republican may be the official winner.

IN MURTHA'S SQUEAK WIN, if it proves to be that, his failure to exploit Watergate was only one reason why what had been expected to be a big Democratic victory was little better than a stand-off.

Big Labor came into the district with nationally known speakers and with money. This was resented in a district which had given the late John P. Saylor, a Republican, comfortable majorities.

The lesson is that the old politics, the politics of Big Labor, will not do in the present mood of disillusion. All the talk is about the money that businessmen poured into the Nixon campaign, but what about the money labor spent? This is the theme of letters coming to me. The next test comes on March 5 in the First District of Ohio, a vacancy resulting from the resignation of Republican William J. Keating to become president of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Cutting Cincinnati in half, the district, which is 20 per cent black, includes the University of Cincinnati and such prosperous predominantly white suburbs as Indian Hills. Keating got 70 per cent of the vote in 1972.

While it is not a swing district, the seat has been held in recent years by leaders in both parties. John Gilligan, the Democrat who went on to be governor of Ohio, held it for one term before he ran for statewide office. Republican Robert Taft Jr. preceded Gilligan in 1962 and then went on to serve two terms beginning in 1966 before running successfully for the Senate.

Both Tom Luken, the Democratic candidate, and Willis Gradison, the Republican, are former Cincinnati mayors. They are both members of the city council. Gradison is a wealthy conservative who will have a problem separating himself from the Nixon administration.

Taking his cue from the Michigan upset, Luken is under no such handicap as he flogs the Watergate horse.

THE WORDS EMBLAZONED in letters of fire on the Republican sky are those of Sen. Barry Goldwater: If you won by less than 62 per cent in 1972 you are in trouble. That goes for at least half the Republicans in the House today, not including those who have opted out, often from districts long considered safe.

In the field of practical politics, as in other areas, the Republicans are plagued by President Nixon's arrogant and sometimes almost capricious use of the power that came with his overwhelming mandate of 1972.

He took George Bush out of the United Nations where he was becoming an effective representative of the United States and installed him as chairman of the Republican National Committee. It was hardly a favor either to the party or to Bush, whose qualifications do not include a knowledge of state and district politics across the nation.

With the upset in Michigan, the warning lights are glowing red.

The end result in November can be a veto-proof Congress. This is the lesson for Richard Nixon as, in the beleaguered White House, he defies his critics.

Just Suppose The Candidates Took Turns Quizzing Voters

If voters can question the political candidates at candidate night meetings, why can't the candidates question the voters?

With this thought in mind, Civic Sam sponsored a "voters' night" at the town hall and invited frustrated candidates to get in their licks.

A roomful of candidates grilled the four courageous voters who showed up for a grueling session that went something like this:

MODERATOR — Good evening, ladies and gentlemen. We are here tonight to hear from four prospective voters, so let's start the questioning.

Candidate — My question is for all four. What is your voting record?

Voter One — I can't recall when it was, but I remember voting for Alf Landon once, and I think I voted for Eisenhower, but I'm not sure.

Voter Two — Well, in the last election, I voted for two winners and two losers, so I guess you could say I'm batting .500.

Voter Three — At the risk of being immodest, I think I hold the local record for the most votes in one election. I voted for my brother-in-law 14 times when he ran for town council.

Voter Four — My record is consistent. I have voted for the conservative candidate in every election.

MODERATOR — I think the question was meant to find out if you have been voting in recent years, but you all were as evasive as candidates are, so let's have a big hand for evasiveness.

Candidate — To all voters. How many town council meetings have you attended during the past year?

Voter One — Well, I was down one night trying to get a variance.

Voter Two — I haven't been able to make any meetings, but I keep up with things reading the newspaper and talking to people.

Voter Three — I have a friend working at Town Hall, who gives real information.

Voter Four — Where is the Town Hall?

CANDIDATE — For Voter Two. Isn't it true that you participated in a voter poll before the election and therefore influenced the outcome?

Voter Two — First of all, I believe in the freedom of information and secondly I didn't want to appear like a dummy when they called me. The fact is that I voted just the opposite when I got in the voting booth, just to even things up.

Candidate — For Voter One — Is it true that your wife is a member of the League of Women Voters and she tells you how to vote?

Voter One — That's a rank lie. The League of Women Voters is neutral, and whenever my wife tells me to do something, I'm neutral.

Candidate — To Voter Three — What do you view as a key issue in the upcoming election?

Voter Three — Whether I'm going to be able to get enough gasoline to get to the polls.

Candidate — To Voter Four: Do you believe in full financial disclosure by voters?

Voter Four — We've got that already. It's called income tax.

CANDIDATE — To Voter One: Why are you voting this year?

Voter One — Because if my father gets elected, I'll get a lot of town contracts.

Candidate — To Voter Two: How do you account for the poor turnout in the last election, only 17 per cent?

Voter Two — The turnout is only as good as the candidates. That comment was greeted with booing, yelling and stamping of feet, resulting in an 18-minute gap in the tape of the proceedings.

Poppies To Blow Again In Turkey's Opium Fields

By JOHN K. COOLEY

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Next May, when the white and purple-blue opium poppies begin sprouting in Turkey's fields, the hard-drug problem in the United States and other Western countries could face serious aggravation.

Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit's new government has officially notified the United States that Turkey will resume legal cultivation of the opium poppy, banned in 1971 under U.S. pressure.

U. S. officials estimate that about 80 per cent of all the heroin and morphine reaching the United States has its origin in Turkish opium.

FOLLOWING THE Turkish announcement, aides of U.S. Ambassador William Macomber began a "review" in Ankara of the opium situation with Ecevit's government. Turkish newspapers reported — and Turkish officials denied — that the United States would offer Turkey about $40 million additional to the $35.7 million in special aid granted in 1971 if it will maintain the ban.

Demo Office Decision On Agenda

The Democratic Central Committee of Marin will hold a special meeting Thursday to reconsider its decision to put its office in the headquarters of one of the seven candidates for their party's nomination for Congress.

The session will start at 8 p.m. in the supervisors chambers of the Marin Civic Center.

The committee voted by a narrow margin on Feb. 12 to rent office space in the headquarters of Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, candidate for the party's nomination in the Fifth Congressional District. Opponents of the action objected it could appear to violate the state law that bars central committees from endorsing candidates in partisan primary elections.

Members of the committee said the special session was called because of adverse public reaction to the action.

The original $35.7 million was intended to help Turkish farmers convert from opium to cultivation of wheat, barley, and sugar beets, among other crops.

Turkish farmers complained last year that this aid had not been reaching them. A report of the Turkish Union of Agricultural Chambers, Turkey's leading farm organization, last year claimed a loss of about $8 million in one year by farmers who had given up poppy cultivation.

New agricultural and industrial projects for the Afyon region of southwestern Anatolia, where most of the opium poppies are grown, had not been carried out by a special U.S.-Turkish committee set up for the purpose, the report said.

ALL THREE major Turkish political parties promised before the October, 1973, Turkish elections that they would lift the opium ban, which affects about 100,000 farming families.

After formation of Turkey's new coalition government last month, the two main partners, Ecevit's Republican People's Party and the National Salvation Party, signed a policy agreement.

On opium production it says: "Ways will be sought to satisfy human considerations on the one hand and to end the damage suffered by the producers on the other."

The 1971 ban slowed but did not halt illicit opium traffic. U.S. and local narcotics control officials say quantities of raw opium are regularly smuggled to Syria and Lebanon. There it is refined into morphine base

Midday Changes For Bus Route 20

Golden Gate Transit's bus route 20, which operates between the Ross Valley and San Francisco, will be rerouted through Sausalito during midday runs and on weekends and holidays, beginning Sunday.

Commute hour service will not be changed, according to Bus Transit Mgr. H. Donald White. The change will improve service between Central Marin and Sausalito and between Sausalito and San Francisco, and reduce the wait between transfers at Marin City, he said.

which is smuggled to Marseilles and other European points for conversion to heroin.

Last August, Turkish police, acting on an anonymous tip, seized a truckload of over two tons of raw opium, the biggest narcotics haul of all time, hidden under fruit.

Refined, this would have produced about 474 pounds of heroin worth about $113 million on the streets of New York, Boston, or Chicago. Turkish police said the opium had been buried underground for at least five years near Gaziantep, a smuggling center near the Turkish-Syrian border.

cotic drugs in 1966. This authorized Turkey and six other countries to grow opium poppies legally for export intended for medical derivatives like morphine. A UN narcotics board each year sets the worldwide quotas for the legal trade. Despite the government stand on the opium poppy issue, Turkish courts have shown great severity in sentencing American and other foreign drug offenders caught smuggling or "pushing" drugs to the outside world from inside Turkey.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Chance of rain late today; rain likely tonight; clearing Wednesday; high Wednesday in the mid 50s to low 60s; low tonight in the 40s; southerly winds increasing to 10 to 20 m.p.h. this evening; chance of rain 60 per cent tonight.

Sierra Nevada: Mostly cloudy north and partly cloudy south through Wednesday; rain likely in the north this evening and spreading south to about Lake Tahoe tonight; clearing Wednesday but with a few showers during the forenoon; snow level lowering to about 5,000 feet by evening; then rising again Wednesday; a little cooler.

Napa and Sonoma valleys: Chance of rain late today; rain likely tonight; clearing Wednesday; low tonight and high Wednesday at Santa Rosa 45 and 60; light wind.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday: Oxidants, clean air. Nitrogen, clean air. Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution. Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas: San Francisco, significant air pollution. San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Discovery Of Life's Processes Predicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An authority on chemical evolution predicted today that scientists eventually will piece together the puzzle of life's origin, starting from the basic chemical conditions from which all life evolved.

Dr. Cyril Ponnampuruma, professor of chemistry at the University of Maryland, said so much has been learned in biochemistry during the past decade or two that chemists have every right to be optimistic they will learn all the secrets of the start of life.

"There is no reason to doubt that we shall rediscover, one by one, the physical and chemical conditions which once determined and directed the course of chemical evolution," he said in a report at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"A form of evolution purely chemical in nature must of necessity have preceded biological evolution."

Pioneers Functioning

MOUNTAIN VIEW (AP) — Scientists reported today the unmanned spacecrafts Pioneer 10 and Pioneer 11 are still functioning properly on their journeys through unexplored space.

Ponnampuruma, a former space agency researcher, said the beginning of life on earth was a gradual process that may have taken millions of years. He said some form of chemical evolution may now be taking place on the great planet Jupiter.

The first stage of the long sequence leading to life began probably about 13 billion years ago, he said, when a catastrophic explosion of a primeval cloud of hydrogen gas formed the basic elements of all matter.

He said rudimentary molecules, forerunners of living things, may have been in existence when earth formed from a primitive cloud of dust 4.5 billion years ago.

The energy necessary to form organic compounds from earth's early atmosphere of methane, ammonia, water vapor and some hydrogen apparently came primarily from sunlight, Ponnampuruma said. Laboratory tests under such conditions have been able to produce compounds considered important for living systems.

He also said life seems to be an inevitable process and bound to appear wherever the right conditions exist. And astronomers have calculated that one out of every 20 stars in the universe may have around them conditions suitable for life.

Take away your filter and what've you got?

A lot of brands are talking about their filters lately.

But how many have something to say about the taste end? The tobacco.

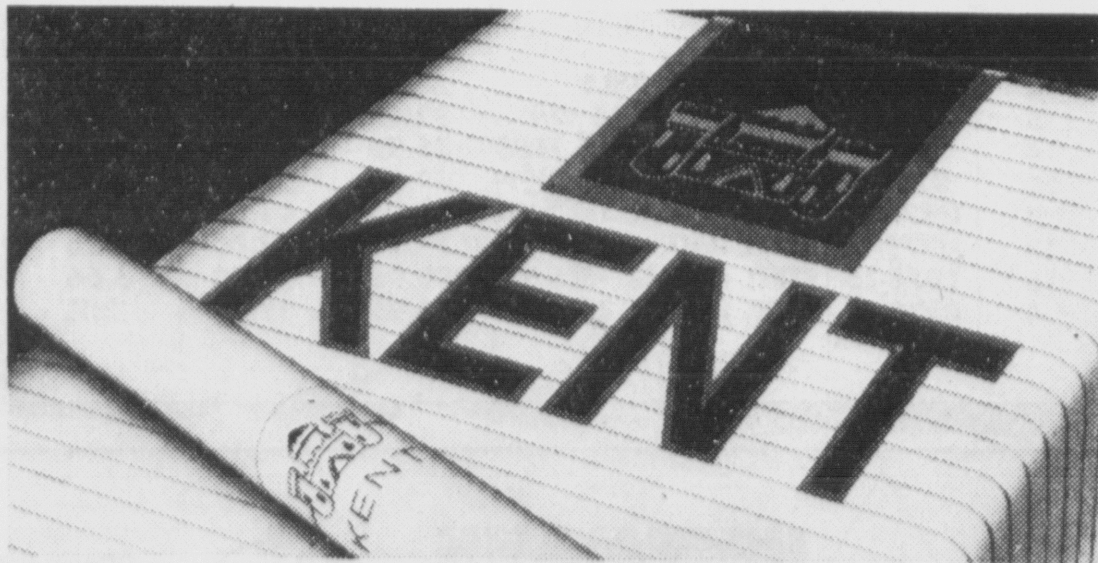

One brand that has plenty to say is Kent.

We insist on lower-leaf tobaccos for our cigarette. (They're a lot milder than the leaves at the top.) And we go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states for the 24 different tobaccos we use in our blend.

In fact, we place as much importance on our tobaccos as we do on our famous Micronite filter.

Because it takes both to give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Fairfax Candidates Unsure How To Choose Mayor

By NELS JOHNSON

Candidates for election to the Fairfax Town Council, expressing various reactions to Mayor E. Ross Parkerson's plan to resign after next Tuesday's municipal election, are split on how to choose a replacement.

Three candidates said they prefer calling a special election to fill the vacancy, one said he preferred allowing the new council to appoint a successor, and two candidates declined comment on the matter.

The 42-year-old Parkerson, elected in 1972 for a four-year term, said Friday he will resign after the election for personal reasons.

Parkerson said his decision to resign was a "recent" development and said it was made without regard to who might be elected in Tuesday's city council sweepstakes.

Seeking reelection are incumbents Frank J. Egger, Lee Nelder, and Robert R. Souza. Challenging the incumbents are Alfred F. Daubenfeld, a member of the town board of review; Randall L. Garrison, a parks and recreation commissioner, and Priscilla C. Gray, town treasurer.

Daubenfeld, 56, an attorney, said he prefers calling a special election to fill Parkerson's seat. "Circumstances may be such that a special election would be the wisest course to take" in light of the town's political divisions, he said. "If there is reason for him to resign, I'm surprised he hasn't already done so," Daubenfeld said.

Egger, 35, a bakery salesman, said he prefers calling a special election to fill Parkerson's seat. "If a special election is not possible, the new council should appoint a successor after full public participation," Egger said, adding the matter should be handled "entirely in open session. There should be no closed session."

Garrison, 33, regional manager for a San Francisco steel firm, said he prefers calling a special election to fill Parkerson's seat. "I would like to have an election (consolidated) with the elections in June, if it's legal," he said. Garrison added that Parkerson must resign "because he's no longer living in town."

Mrs. Gray, 47, a teacher of retarded children, declined comment on the matter, saying she was still "quite stunned" with Parkerson's intention to resign. "I haven't even caught my breath yet," she said. She expressed fear that Parkerson's action might complicate the council contest, with voters erroneously casting four ballots, rather than only three, on Tuesday.

Nelder, 52, a San Francisco police sergeant, declined comment on the matter, saying only "Well, what can you say... I really have nothing to say."

Souza, 50, a veteran's employment coordinator, said he prefers allowing the new council to appoint a successor to Parkerson. "I would take the least expensive way. Absolutely, I would vote to appoint the person most qualified to do the job," he said. Souza said he would not necessarily appoint the candidate to receive the fourth highest vote in Tuesday's election. He added he was shocked at the development and said Parkerson should have resigned earlier.

Sewer District Buys Generators

Sausalito-Marine City Sanitary District directors last night approved spending $18,100 for two standby electrical generators to run sewage pumps in case of power failure.

The power units will be bought for $9,600 from Williams and Lane, Inc., of Berkeley and for $8,500 from King Knight Co. of Emeryville, according to Edwin S. Long, district secretary. They will be installed at the Locust Street and Main Street pumping stations.

WHAT WILL THEY USE IT FOR?

Service stations may be going out of business all over the place, but motorists waiting in long lines for gasoline in Larkspur having been doing double takes at the sight of this new Texaco service station going up at the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Doherty Drive. But it's not really such a hopeful sign, according to a Texaco spokesman who said it was planned two years ago and will replace two Texaco stations in Larkspur which recently closed. One almost expected to see autos waiting at the unfinished station today, as more and more Marin stations today shut off their gas pumps and lines of autos became longer and longer at those which continued to pump.

Many Express Views On Environment Plan

Some 75 to 100 persons turned out last night for the first public hearing on the environmental section of the San Rafael preliminary general plan, many to voice some criticism and others to give qualified approval.

Included in the environmental section are reports on "hazards," such as earthquake and flood prone areas and some mention of tidal waves. The rest of the section identified priorities for acquiring open space set by the consultants, Duncan and Jones, who drew up the report.

So-called "seismic risks" are being used in the report "to promote open space," Bruce Bernhard, spokesman for several landowners, said.

He also said that, according to the planners, "the only apparent safe places" to build in San Rafael are McNear's quarry and the local cemetery.

Mary Dekker, who has worked toward the preservation of the Dollar Mansion, said she objected to the "confusing language" of the report's environmental section but "recommended its adoption after editing."

Herbert G. Hotchner, San Rafael planning director, more or less agreed with her, saying the document's "wording is too generalized to be adopted as it is."

The plan sets high priorities for reserving as open space the San Rafael-Sleepy Hollow ridge divide, the Lucas Valley-Terra Linda divide and Big Rock Ridge.

The report also recommends no future residential development on the bay shoreline due to seismic and settlement risks.

Last night's hearing before the city's planning commission was aimed at getting public reaction. At 8 p.m. tomorrow in the city hall the planning commission itself will discuss the environmental section of the plan.

Two Plans Amended By County

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday endorsed amendments to the Strawberry Community Plan and the Ring Mountain Plan to reconcile differences between the two. (Another Planning Commission story, page 1.)

The overall result of the adjustments was to permit 17 more dwelling units under the Strawberry plan and subtract 13 from the Ring Mountain Plan.

The changes came about from a balancing between plans of the number of units to be permitted on the Lindskog, Anston and Deffebach properties.

The Strawberry plan currently calls for about 1,300 dwelling units to be built in the area by 1990.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

HORSES — Rejected an appeal from Fred P. Cox and Frank G. Chambers to keep 193 acres at the end of Tarry Road in Sleepy Hollow undeveloped for at least 10 years. In return, the property owners will receive a cut in taxes.

OPEN SPACE — Accepted an offer from Fred P. Cox and Frank G. Chambers to keep 193 acres at the end of Tarry Road in Sleepy Hollow undeveloped for at least 10 years. In return, the property owner will receive a cut in taxes.

Restaurant Takes Out Application

Application for a permit to build a restaurant partly overhanging a lagoon in Corte Madera, and for fill for its parking lot, has been filed with the Army Corps of Engineers office in San Francisco.

The Steak and Ale Restaurants of America firm of Dallas, Tex., also has applied to the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board for certification, the Army reported.

The exterior deck and part of the restaurant would overhang "Lagoon A," alongside Corte Madera Creek at the intersection of Lucky Drive and Nellum Avenue. Fill and drainage work also is proposed.

Any objections to the Army permit should be filed in writing with the district office, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco 94102 by March 25, the Army said.

Hearing Set On Airport Plan

The Novato City Council will have a hearing on Marin County's proposed master plan for Gnos Field March 12 at the Novato Community House.

The council will meet at 8 p.m., but the hearing is expected to be held later, exact time uncertain.

The hearing also will cover the environmental impact report on the proposed master plan.

White's Hill Safety Light Now Operating

A flashing yellow caution light which was long sought by residents of the San Geronimo Valley has been installed on White's Hill, members of the San Geronimo Valley Association were told last night.

The warning light to warn eastbound drivers of the curve at the top of the hill, scene of fatal crashes, was installed about two weeks ago and is now operating according to Ola Pope, association secretary.

Association members had asked the county public works department to install the light last year.

In other discussion last night, the association members agreed to write to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, to ask cooperation from the sheriff's department in controlling idle loungers, some of them intoxicated, who frequent the Forest Knolls area.

Mail Rates Going Up On Saturday

It will cost three cents more to mail a letter to any country outside the United States when new postage rates go into effect Saturday — and four or five cents more if it goes by air.

In addition to hikes in domestic letter rates from eight to 10 cents by regular and from 11 to 13 cents by airmail, there will be the following increases on international mail, the San Rafael Post Office reported today: Airmail letters to South and Central America and the West Indies will go from 17 to 21 cents per half ounce; those to other countries will go from 21 to 26 cents.

"Aerogrammes," the self-contained letter-envelopes, will go from 15 to 18 cents anywhere in the world.

Surface mail letters to all foreign countries will go from 15 to 18 cents per ounce.

Postcards to United States addresses will rise to eight cents by regular mail and 11 cents by airmail.

Letters and cards to Canada and Mexico are carried at the domestic rates.

Driver Serious From Accident

A San Rafael man was reported in serious condition at Marin General Hospital today with injuries suffered when the car in which he was riding overturned yesterday on Nicasio Valley Road.

Roland Mann, 56, of 208 Auburn Street received two broken legs in the accident which also injured the driver, Gordon L. Fish, 43, of Forest Knolls.

Fish was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital with a broken left leg and facial and scalp cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said the auto was southbound on the road about 10:20 p.m. when it left the highway, hit a large rock and rolled over.

Even-Odd Gasoline Plan Will Be Decided Tonight

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County gasoline dealers will decide tonight whether to adopt a system of rotation for purchase of gas by customers.

Dealers were urged yesterday by county supervisors to set up a program based on the one in effect in Oregon since early last month.

The supervisors' resolution asked that motorists whose license plates end in even numbers be sold gas only on even days of the month and Saturdays, those with odd numbered plates only on odd days and Saturdays.

If the Sonoma County Independent Service Station Dealers Association adopts the even-odd plan as set forth by the supervisors, all drivers would be eligible to buy gas on Saturdays.

A county spokesman said personalized license plates would be considered even numbered. Motorists with out-of-state plates would be served "without regard to number," as would physicians and other private emergency personnel.

Gasoline dealers in Cotati and Rohnert Park, meanwhile informed their city councils they intend to test a uniform selling plan of their own, according to Rohnert Park City Clerk Kathryn P. Logue.

The plan is to close week-ends, open weekdays at 7 a.m. and remain open till supplies are exhausted. The plan will be tested Friday through next Monday.

The Cotati and Rohnert Park dealers told the city council that they will consider an even-odd system if their 7 a.m. system doesn't work.

The Rohnert Park council will meet again at 7 p.m. Thursday to consider further action. Mrs. Logue said, depending on tonight's decision by the county dealers' association.

Opens Office

Alan F. Reeves, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth District, opened his San Rafael headquarters today at 889 Fourth Street.

Reeves said, "I can't remember it ever happening before." He said no one candidate or neighborhood was being spared in the vandalism outbreak.

Campaign Signs Hit By Vandals

An unprecedented rash of campaign sign vandalism is sweeping Corte Madera, Police Chief David L. McIntosh said yesterday.

Signs for all four candidates in the March 5 city council election are being torn down, spray painted or scribbled over with obscenities, he reported.

The vandalism is "catching all of them for some unknown reason, during the last week and one-half," the chief said. "We don't know whether it's simply juveniles, or because of high feelings over the shopping center."

Much heat in the campaign is being generated by arguments for and against the multimillion dollar Hahn shopping center east of Highway 101 — which led to recall of three procenter councilmen last year.

McIntosh said the city has an ordinance restricting campaign signs, but it has been largely overlooked in recent years. As to the vandalism, McIntosh said, "I can't remember it ever happening before."

Champagne Party
Slated For Demo

A champagne party for Carolyn Wilkins of Oregon, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday at the Tiburon home of Adrienne Barsimanto, 1 Tara Hill Road. Reservations are being handled by Ruth L. Lederman of Kentfield and Mrs. Barsimanto.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight: KCRA (3), KRON (4), 8:30 p.m. — Tony Lo Bianco, starring as officer Tony Calabrese, with Don Meredith as his partner Bert Jameson, return to the roles they created in a previous episode of "Police Story," when they head an all-star cast in the "Night Hunter," a special 90-minute drama on "Police Story."

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8:30 p.m. — Gloria Swanson stars in her first made-for-television movie as an aging matriarch dominating her family and terrorizing the town by her strange power to control a hive of murderous bees. In "Killer Bees." The suspense drama also stars Edward Albert, Kate Jackson and Roger Davis.

KCRA (3), KRON (4), 10 p.m. — "American Bag," a topical comedy special with grassroots humor zeroing in on conditions which affect Americans most today, from the battle of the supermarket to the energy crisis, will be hosted by Dennis Weaver. Special guests for the event include McLean Stevenson, Gabriel Kaplan, Dena Dietrich, Lincoln Kilpatrick, Pam Zarit and Andrew Johnson.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 11:30 p.m. — Robert Culp and Eli Wallach star as two scientists who become the victims of a terrifying, unknown experiment while they are isolated in a snowbound laboratory studying the effects of altitude on apes, in "A Cold Night's Death."

Dock, Lock Session
Scheduled Tonight

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District board will have a special meeting today at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center on the lagoon dock and lock dispute.

The district, by court injunction, halted construction of Waterways Enterprises dock Jan. 25. About a week later, Richard E. Blackburn, a partner in the firm, filed a countersuit saying if the firm doesn't have the right to build its 280-foot dock, the district doesn't have the right to anchor one of its lagoon locks to his property.

Minister's Final
Service At Church

Rev. Bliss W. Bellinger will conduct his final service at Faith Lutheran Church in Terra Linda at 8 p.m. tomorrow, celebrating Holy Communion for Ash Wednesday.

Bellinger has resigned after more than 18 years as pastor of the Marin church but will remain in the county to develop a personal ministry on his own as well as to form "an alternative, free-floating ecumenical Christian community" for people turned off by the structured church.

"Remember our first date? When you got angry and said you'd never speak to me again?"

At Station
By Burglars

A Novato gasoline service station, one of 11 damaged by vandals last Friday, was burglarized Saturday night with a loss of about $800 cash.

Someone ransacked Regan's Shell station at 1390 South Novato Boulevard between 6:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. after kicking out the Plexi-glass front door, Novato police reported.

Vending machines were pried open, a cash drawer was pried open, cash was taken from a file drawer, an attempt was made to open the safe and drawers and cabinets were ransacked, police said.

Eleven service stations in Novato were vandalized last Friday when rocks were thrown through station windows, with the total damage estimated at $1,500.

Richardson
Says Nixon's Views Wrong

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Eliot L. Richardson said yesterday that President Nixon has the mistaken notion that his Watergate problems are caused by a group of enemies trying to destroy or discredit him.

"This is the wrong view of his position," Nixon's former attorney general told a news conference. "His problem is with all the American people who would like to be with him — many of whom have been with him in the past and would like to be with him now."

Richardson said the President can best resolve the situation "by leveling with everyone, by demonstrating, 'this is all there is. There is no more information.'" But Richardson said Nixon is "still making moves that undercut his credibility. This is unnecessary as well as wrong."

END OF THE TRAIL

1 Little, 2 Little Indians? Not Quite

HAVRE, Mont. (AP) — Two young Wisconsin brothers set off from home with Indian headdresses, a tom tom, a homemade spear, bow and arrows and about 60 cents.

Douglas and William Morgan, 10 and 9, of Milwaukee told their parents in a note they were heading for Indian country to find an Indian tribe which would adopt them.

The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Plonka, climbed aboard an Amtrak train without tickets Sunday morning and traveled to Minneapolis, unhindered by conductors.

At Minneapolis they changed trains, getting on a Burlington Northern passenger train en route to Seattle, Wash.

They overshot Sioux Indian country in South Dakota, their apparent destination, and wound up instead at Havre, Blackfeet Indian territory.

Their westward journey ended here yesterday after Burlington Northern conductor Lee M. Grant of Havre noticed the boys in a domed passenger car and asked them where their parents were.

The truth came out and the Morgan brothers — their mother is remarried — were given over to juvenile authorities to await the 1,300-mile trip home.

What awaits them when they return?

"They already know," Mrs. Plonka told newsmen in Milwaukee. "They said to me, 'I suppose we're going to get a spanking.' And I said, 'Well, do you suppose you should get a pat on the back?'"

Betts Asks Election As Controller

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former state Treasurer Bert A. Betts announced yesterday that he will seek the Democratic nomination for state controller.

Betts, 50, served eight years as treasurer, from 1959 to 1966. He now runs a Sacramento County financial consulting firm, Bert A. Betts & Associates.

Betts said he was entering the race because "voters have a right to expect professional competence in the state's top fiscal post."

"The controller is responsible for the integrity of all state accounts as well as the vast payroll system, issuance of warrants and fund statements," he said. "In addition, the controller is a member of several boards which also demand extensive fiscal experience."

While treasurer, Betts devised a method of short-term note financing for the California Water Project and restored competitive bidding on California bond issues.

Other candidates for the Democratic nomination are Assemblyman Ken Cory of Garden Grove and San Francisco county supervisor Robert Mendelsohn. Best known candidate for the Republican nomination is Assemblyman William Bagley of San Rafael.

BART Seeking Tax Extension

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An extension of a special half-cent sales tax is needed to help keep the Bay Area Rapid Transit District system running, BART Gen. Mgr. B. R. Stokes said today.

Stokes told the legislature the special surtax should be extended "at least two years and preferably five years."

Stokes told a Senate committee the modern $1.5 billion, 71-mile long Bay Area Rapid Transit District system may have to shut down later this year, even before all of the equipment has arrived and all lines opened, unless new funds are found.

Mill Valley May Let Teachers Go

The Mill Valley School District may have to lay off from nine to 15 teachers to help make up for dropping enrollment and a tight district budget, the district board agreed last night.

Supt. Peter Palches said the board agreed that since enrollment had declined by about 5 per cent this year from last, a similar percentage of positions should be cut from the district's total of 176 teaching employees.

Palches said he told the board the district is facing an increasingly tight budget under the limitations of state law and noted that declining enrollment means decreases in state aid and in income from property taxes.

"While it seems cold to turn this into a dollars and cents decision," he said, "The most humane thing is to face reality now."

Palches said a few representatives of the Mill Valley Teachers Association attended to object to the cuts and to suggest that the problem might be handled differently.

According to Palches, the board also asked that the district staff study ways to increase natural attrition of employees, perhaps by encouraging more leaves of absence and by proving more retirement incentives. He said the board also asked that the district staff provide counseling for those laid off.

A seniority list for teachers already has been drawn up using a lottery system. Those who will be laid off will be notified by March 15.

Also last night, the board approved plans for a Saturday ecology project involving 40 students from Mill Valley schools and 40 students from Sausalito schools. The program will be handled by Patrick Harris, coordinator of the Wind School at the Mill Valley Middle School.

Pasadena Playhouse Gets A New Lease

PASADENA (AP) — The footlights will be going on again at the Pasadena Playhouse for the first time in four years, says a developer who purchased it for $325,000.

William Converse Jones, president of King Development Systems and the Converse Jones Co., signed contracts to buy the 57-year-old playhouse yesterday. He said he will turn it into a combination shopping and cultural center with similarities to San Francisco's Ghirardelli Square.

Auto Moguls Hoping For Sales Increase

DETROIT (UPI) — President Nixon's prediction that gasoline rationing probably can be avoided could spark an upswing in auto sales, which were off a whopping 36.8 per cent in mid-February.

It was the sharpest year-to-year drop since the 1974 models were introduced in September. Americans have either stayed away from the dealers' showrooms or have ordered gas-saving small models because they were not sure whether there would be any gasoline.

Despite the gloomy sales figures released yesterday, just hours before the President's televised news conference, automotive executives maintained their optimism of a sales surge by spring.

For General Motors, the industry giant that has trimmed more than 50,000 workers from its payrolls since December, the slump was an even bigger 47.5 per cent drop.

DON'T LET THE GASOLINE SHORTAGE DRIVE YOU TO A CRISIS OF SMALLER PROPORTIONS.

A Volvo can get almost twice the gasoline mileage of some popular big cars.*

Yet unlike small cars, Volvo has about the same front seat legroom as a Cadillac de Ville. As much back seat legroom as a Lincoln Continental. And more trunk space than the Pinto and Barracuda combined.

But Volvo isn't just roomy. It's comfortable.

The bucket seats are orthopedically designed to give support to all the contours of the body. Even to the point of having an adjustment that gives the small of your back firmer or softer support.

And in a Volvo, you won't have to gather your courage to enter crowded highways. Its responsive, fuel-injected engine lets you move out into traffic before onrushing traffic moves into you.

And once you're out there, you'll actually feel the rigidity of Volvo's body — welded into one solid piece of steel with thousands of closely-spaced spot welds.

So instead of overreacting to the gasoline shortage, respond thoughtfully. By getting a Volvo.

That way, you can drive a big car without adding fuel to the energy crisis.

3 Are Unanimous All-League Picks

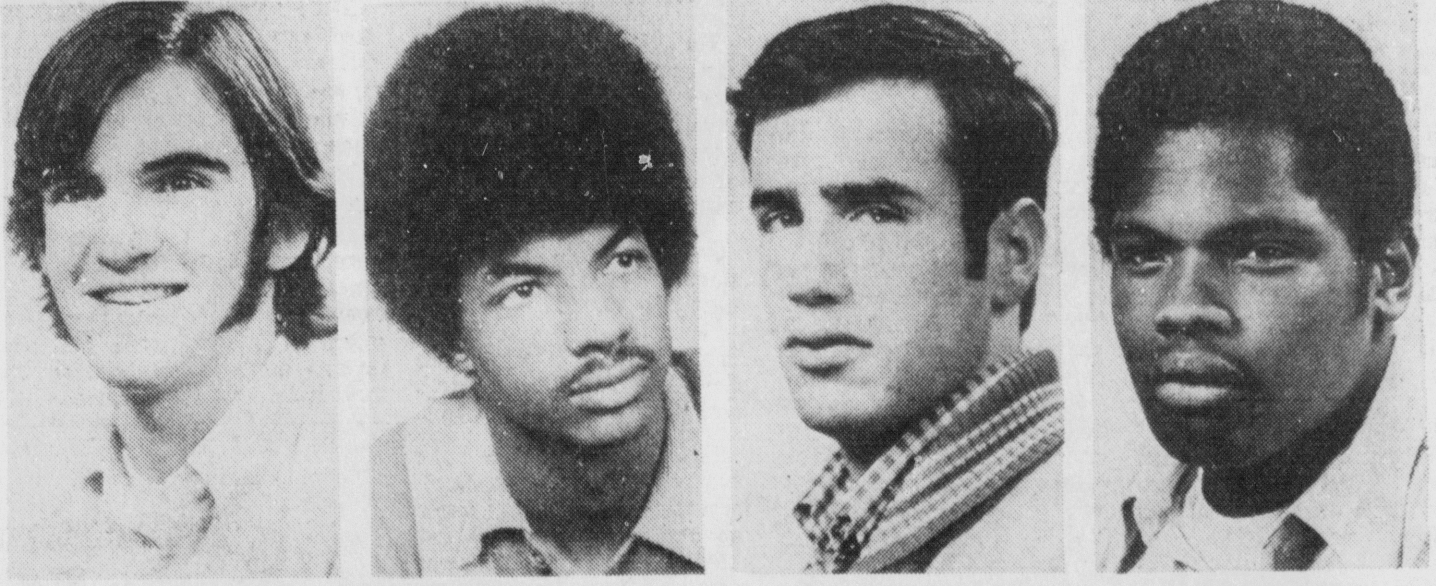

UNANIMOUS PICKS — Mike Dinehart, Byron Stewart and Eddie Joe Chavez (left to right) were unanimous selections on the All-Marin County Athletic League basketball team.

Chavez, Stewart, Dinehart

Three seniors who carried the burden of their teams' scoring all year long were rewarded last night by being unanimously chosen to the all-Marin County Athletic League basketball team.

They are Byron Stewart of San Rafael High School, Eddie Joe Chavez of Drake and Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais.

The league's coaches, meeting last night at Drake, chose a seven-man first team which also included Willie Barnes of Novato, Mike Mahoney of Marin Catholic and Darrell Elder and Neil Hennessy of Redwood. All are seniors except Mahoney, a junior. The choices were announced this morning.

OTHER CHOICES — Mike Mahoney, Willie Barnes, Neil Hennessy, and Darrell Elder were other selections on the MCAL first team.

Basketball's Changed Since Luisetti's Day

SAN FRANCISCO — Basketball has changed more than any major sport in the past 35 years. In the 1930s the scoring by one team seldom reached the 50s and high school scores sometimes never even reached the 20s.

College scores are now in the 80s, 90s and many times more than a 100, and scores in high school games are not far behind.

But times were different in the days of Angelo Luisetti. He went by the name of Hank and revolutionized the game of basketball in the 30's with a one-handed push shot. Until Hank came along, everybody did their shooting with two hands.

Luisetti learned his basketball on the playgrounds of San Francisco and at Galileo High before becoming a superstar at Stanford. He's now 57 and looks every bit of 35. It appears he could still walk out on the court and push through some game-winning points.

Hank was honored by the American Sports Club of San Francisco last night at the Hyatt on Union Square. The audience was half the size of past sports club dinners, but many of those in attendance were of the age that showed they had seen Luisetti perform on Bay Area courts.

HIS PLAYING DAYS were before my time, but I have read about Hank's exploits in basketball... about the time he scored 50 points against Duquesne for what was then a national one game scoring record... how he led Stanford to a 45-31 victory over Long Island University to snap that team's 43-game win streak... how he set scoring records during his three years of Stanford varsity play.

"I was very fortunate to play with great teams," Luisetti said last night in accepting his plaque from the American Sports Club. "I was lucky that I played with good players." He remains a modest man, a characteristic that he had during his playing days.

What a difference in the game today, he said. "Basketball skills have changed. Now there are great shooters. We passed more and played more defense. And the size now! Teams have seven-footers who play on the side (as forwards)."

REFERRING TO the salaries and rewards now going to great college players who turn professional, Hank said that didn't bother him. That kind of money wasn't around in his day. "I have my memories and that can never be taken away from me."

Luisetti never really got his chance to excel in professional basketball although he played for the Phillips Oilers a short time before entering the Navy in World War II. He was forced to quit playing basketball in 1944 after battling spinal meningitis. Doctors had advised him to quit because his heart was weakened by the disease.

IN A FILE clipping dug out of the I-J files is a quote from Chuck Hyatt, coach of the Phillips Oilers in 1941 when Hank was playing for him before his Navy days. Said Hyatt: about Luisetti: "I've seen most of them. I mean Beckman, Holman, Dehnert, Banks and the others who were gifted for this game. But this kid is the last word. He was born for this game. I've never seen him make a mistake. He's just one of those guys who come along once in a generation with just the right combination of speed, reflexes, good hands, good eyes, and class."

Andrews Plans To Sue Finley For $1 Million

BOSTON (UPI) — Mike Andrews, the former Oakland A's infielder who was given his unconditional release following two errors in the 1973 world series, plans to sue A's owner Charles O. Finley for $1 million and the team physician for $500,000, the Boston Herald American reported today.

Andrews, 30, intends to file the suit alleging that Finley and Dr. Charles Hudson damaged his ability to earn a livelihood.

The resident of West Peabody, Mass., has been unable to latch on with another team since Finley gave him his release.

The owner put Andrews on the disabled list following the two errors made in the second game of the series and after Hudson examined the player and declared he had a shoulder injury. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn stepped in and ordered Finley to immediately reinstate Andrews who then rode out the series on the bench.

Andrews' shoulder has been examined by two of the top orthopedic specialists in the Boston area, the newspaper said, and neither has been able to find anything wrong — or that anything serious was ever wrong.

At the time, Finley said Andrews signed Hudson's diagnosis after first asking unsuccessfully for a new contract. However, Andrews said he signed the report only because of "extreme" pressure applied by Finley.

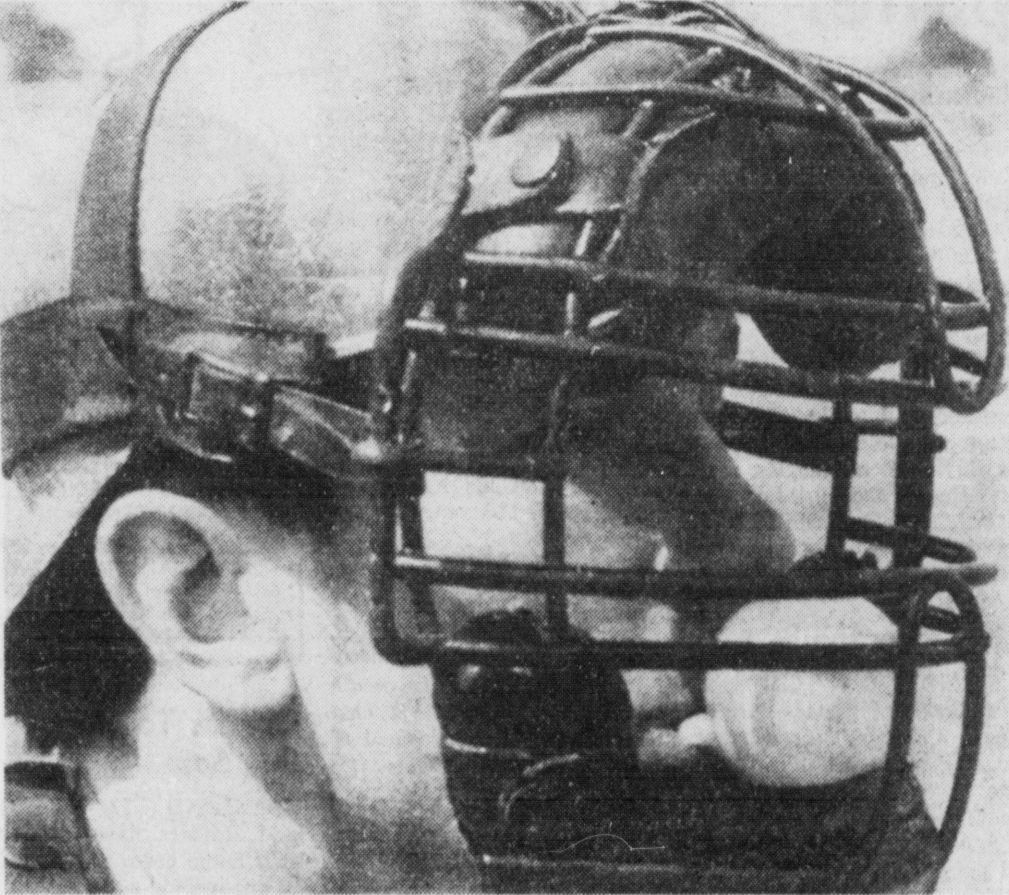

The newspaper said Andrews "tried vainly" during the off-season to get a job with a major league club but each one he talked to turned him down.

As a result, Andrews has retained a Boston law firm which will handle his damage suits.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Single Playoff Set If Two Pacific-8 Leaders Deadlock

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL
What would happen if that Pacific Eight basketball race were to wind up in a tie?

The conference said today that if two teams were deadlocked, they would meet in a single playoff game after a coin flip decided who would be the home team. If three teams were tied, a coin flip would decide who had the bye and a second coin flip the site of the playoff between the other two teams.

USC and UCLA not only are tied with 9-2 records in conference play, but also both have 20-3 overall marks. Persistent Oregon is 8-3 and 14-9.

Meanwhile, latest Pac-8 figures showed Rich Kelley of Stanford the scoring leader at 18.6 points per conference game with Ron Lee of Oregon next at 18.4. Big Bill Walton is well down the list in sixth with 17.1, but the Bruin pivot man leads when all games are considered with 18.9 to 18.4 for Kelley and 18.3 for Lee.

Walton tops the rebounders while Mike Westra of USC is hitting .696 from the floor and Dan Anderson of USC and Chester Dorsey of Washington are tied for the free throw lead at .861.

UCLA has regained its domination of team figures with the top offense (76.5 points per game), defense (58.6), scoring margin (17.8), free throw percentage (.740) and rebound margin (10.2). USC is hitting .520 of its shots with UCLA next at .508.

In Coast cage games last night, Chico State moved into a tie for second in the Far Western Conference with an 8-3 record by taking Humboldt State 82-59 as Mike Harski pumped in 28 points.

Whitman wound up its season at 13-12 for its first back-to-back winning seasons in 20 years by nudging Whitworth, 12-12 with one game to go, by a 71-68 score.

Paul Zysowski scored 19 to pace Occidental to a 91-42 romp over Cal Tech in SCIAC play. The losers' season mark is now 1-20.

NFL Moves To Protect Its Future

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The National Football League took care of its future yesterday and looks to the present today.

NFL owners, holding their annual winter meetings, Monday reduced the number of expansion candidates to five with the selection of Honolulu, Phoenix, Memphis, Seattle and Tampa as possible league cities and reaffirmed New Orleans as the site for January's Super Bowl IX.

Now comes the touchy subject of negotiations with the Players Association next month.

Dan Rooney of Pittsburgh, chairman of the expansion committee which includes Tex Schramm of Dallas, Lou Spadia of San Francisco and Gerald Phipps of Denver, reported to the owners yesterday after a 10-month study of expansion sites and the league owners decided on the five cities as best possible locations. A meeting was set for April in New York to make a further decision on expanding from the present 26-team format.

The owners also gave New Orleans a vote of confidence by deciding to keep the title game there. The Super Bowl was awarded to New Orleans last April, but labor problems caused a snag in construction of the $163 million Louisiana Superdome and there was a possibility the game might be switched to Los Angeles.

"We felt it advisable to advise the people in the other cities looking for expansion franchises of our decision," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who announced the names of the five cities. "This should not be taken as a decree that we are going or not going to expand. We're just saying that these are the five prime cities we have reduced the original applicants to and we'll make further decisions in April."

Rooney said that there is a possibility that the new clubs, should the league add any, could play in 1975.

Rooney also said the new World Football League, which expects to open play this summer in 12 cities, was not a factor in the committee's decision, though only one of the five cities, Honolulu, has a WFL franchise.

"We did not take the WFL into consideration," Rooney explained. "We tried as best we could to put the WFL out of our minds. We wanted to look at expansion in a sense of how it

Redwood Skiers Win League Title

TAHOE CITY — It's easy to understand how Malibu produces great surfers, or Canada great hockey players, but who would have thought of Marin as the home base for ski champions?

Redwood High School of snowless Larkspur yesterday won the championship meet of the California-Nevada Inter-scholastic Ski Federation at Alpine Meadows with 385 points to second-place Placer's 345 and third-place Davis' 291.

"It was amazing," said coach Doug Basham, whose team captured both the boys and girls categories to win its first title in its five year league membership, despite not having an individual winner. "Our depth was the key," Basham said.

Larry Boeck was third, Scooter Simmons fourth and Don Rose 11th in the 54-boy giant slalom field as Redwood scored 187, Placer 181 and Davis 170.

Lisa Tuffanelli was second, Sabrina Roblin fourth, Cynthia Boeck sixth and Sue Hall 10th in the 48-girl field as Redwood had 198, El Dorado 178 and Placer 164.

Redwood also won the junior varsity competition in both categories, the boys scoring 192 and girls 180. Serge Alexander and Rob Ewert were 1-2 in boys giant slalom.

Giants Are Looking For A Catcher

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, solid at many positions, could use a catcher.

Only Mike Sadek is in camp here while Dave Rader is still a holdout, threatening to go into real estate for a living. Even if he came to camp, the Giants could use another receiver.

In the meantime, guys like coach Ozzie Vergil, utility infielder Chris Arnold and Frank Funk, who managed the Fresno farm team last season, are taking care of the receiving chores.

Asked if the non-appearance of Rader, who hit .229 last season, is worrying him, manager Charlie Fox said, "I'd like to have him here, naturally, but I'm not losing sleep over it."

"We're looking for a catcher," added Fox, "but so far we haven't established a firm contract."

The Giants were known to be angling for Chris Cannizzaro after he was cut by the Los Angeles Dodgers, but he signed on as player-manager in the Houston organization.

Johnny Edwards, veteran Astro backstop, also is reported free for the signing, but Fox says, "it could be too great a risk. For the past few years, Johnny has threatened to retire to go into a career in engineering. We want somebody dedicated to a career in catching."

Weightlifting can pose an insurmountable problem for even the superstar athletes, as pro footballer O. J. Simpson (left) and pole vaulter Bob Seagren confirmed yesterday. Simpson struggled mightily with 265 pounds during the weightlifting portion of the Superstars competition in Rotonda, Fla. Seagren applied all his muscles, including those in his face, while trying to lift 240 pounds. Both men failed in these attempts. Simpson finished second behind fellow National Football League star Franco Harris. Seagren took fourth. Harris lifted 265 pounds.

Gaters' Tennis Opener Set May 8

Combined AP & UPI
OAKLAND — The Golden Gaters of the new World Team Tennis League yesterday announced their 44-game schedule with the opener set for May 8 against Denver.

Competing in the Western League, the San Francisco-Oakland team, which will play home games at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena, will have two home and two away games with each league member. The Western League is made up of two divisions, Pacific and Gulf-Plains.

Golden Gate, Denver, Los Angeles and Hawaii make up the Pacific section. Chicago, Minnesota, Houston and Florida are in the Gulf-Plains division.

One home and one away game is scheduled for each of the eight teams in the Eastern League.

A total of three matches will be held each night. The home team will determine the order of play — men's singles, women's singles and mixed doubles.

Aug. 19-25 has been set aside as playoff week for divisional playoffs and the team tennis world series.

America, rocketed from 88th to third on professional Golfers Association 1974 money-winning list.

According to the PGA tournament Players Division's weekly report, the second-year tour player lifted his year's earnings to $55,331 with his first tournament victory. Johnny Miller continued to lead the tour with $109,105.

Jack Nicklaus climbed from fourth to second on the strength of his fourth-place finish in the Gleason. Nicklaus has earned $59,116 so far this year.

Boxing

PARIS — Underdog Bennie Briscoe of Philadelphia, Pa., handed middleweight title hopeful Tony Mundine of Australia a setback last night by knocking him out in the fifth round of their 12 round bout.

Baseball

OAKLAND — The Oakland A's advance ticket windows will open tomorrow when tickets go on sale for the first homestand of the 1974 baseball season.

The home opener April 1 will match the A's against the Texas Rangers. The same two teams will meet the next day on Easter Sunday in the season's first doubleheader.

Tennis

BARCELONA — Tom Leonard of San Leandro, Calif., yesterday upset Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 6-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the opening round of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament.

LA COSTA, Calif. — Roy Emerson of Australia yesterday defeated Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 6-3, 6-7, 6-3 in the first round of World Championship Tennis play.

CHICAGO — Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., yesterday beat Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles 6-3, 6-4 and gained the second round of the Pro Women's Tennis Circuit Tourney.

Garner Vs. Brown Scoring Battle Set

College of Marin's Wil Garner, on the verge of winning the Camino Norte Conference basketball scoring title, will play a game tonight against the only man with even a remote chance to take it away from him.

Garner will confront John Brown of Canada College tonight at 8 o'clock in Redwood City as league play enters its final week.

With 40 points Saturday night against West Valley of Campbell in the Tars' home finale in Kentfield, Garner hiked his conference total to 333 points in 14 games.

It will be almost impossible for Brown to make up the deficit, because he has played one more game (15) and scored 29 fewer points (304).

The Tars enter the game with an 11-3 conference record and a 23-3 overall mark. Canada is 7-8 and 12-14 following a 77-60 loss Saturday night to De Anza of Cupertino, in which the Dons earned a share of the title and mathematically eliminated Marin.

The Tars beat Canada in Kentfield earlier this year, 72-56.

Stewart Finishes High On All-Time Scoring List

Byron Stewart of San Rafael High School finished well up on the list of Marin's greatest basketball scorers of all time, even though he fell short of the single-season record.

The 6-foot-7 senior with the quick moves and the deadly outside shot finished the 14-game Marin County Athletic League season with 314 points for a 22.4 average, according to final statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal.

He won the scoring championship by a 35-point margin over Mike Dinehart of Tamalpais, who averaged 19.9. Drake's Eddie Joe Chavez was third (19.1) and Marin Catholic junior Mike Mahoney was fourth (18.1).

Stewart missed the one-season record of 332, set by San Marin's Dana La Ferriere in 1970, by 18 points. His point total was second highest in history and his average was third, behind La Ferriere's 23.7 and 23.4 mark set by Wil Garner of Tamalpais in 12 games in 1972. Garner missed the final two games with an injury.

Stewart shattered Garner's 1971 record of 123 field goals by making 142 shots from the field.

San Rafael captured the team championship in defense by allowing only 699 points, one point under a 50-point average. Only four teams exceeded 50 and only one got over 55 against the Bulldogs.

Combined with a 58.9 scoring average, that gave San Rafael the leadership in average margin of victory (9.0 points a game).

Second-place Drake led the league in offense (66.2) and was second in victory margin (8.6).

Chevrolet Caprice Classic. Why settle for something else?

In a time of turned-back thermostats and lowered speed limits, some say we must also turn our backs on elegance, lower our taste, and settle for something else.

Why settle for anything else when you can settle into a Caprice? If your needs include spaciousness and your preference dictates class, Caprice should make sense for you. Caprice, the uppermost Chevrolet, is a distinguished car, soft and comfortable to sit in, smooth and quiet on the road.

Why settle for something else when you can enjoy the Caprice Classic at your local Chevrolet dealer's?

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

173-Pound Sturgeon Good For First Prize

A Redwood City man is the winner of the Lord of the Sea sturgeon derby which ended at 5 p.m. Sunday. Rich Scofield 173-pounder prevailed.

Sam Crawford was second with his 114 pounder. The other eight fish good for prizes weighed from 55 to 72 pounds. It's funny, Russ Damos asked me how to fix 20 pounds of roe into caviar. He told me Sunday about his hefty 85-pound fish. He hadn't entered the derby.

DAVE KENNEDY is the striped bass champion in the derby. Using bullheads and mudsuckers near S.P. Buoy over the weekend, he landed a 29-pound, four-ounce fish.

Pete Bacigalupi took second in the striped portion with his 24-pound, three-ounce catch. He was seventh in strippers with a 63-pounder. He was the only angler to place twice.

Amos and Gladys Horsley took sixth and seventh place in the bass derby for the only family winners. Me? I got half of eighth-place in the bass derby, and I never caught a fish! On a trip with Marty Medin who took eighth with his 19-pound, six-ounce bass, we decided to split the prize if either of us caught anything worthwhile. I suppose I'll get one of those Lord of the Sea sweat-shirts. Good Lord, just what I need!

THE SALMON fishing outside the Gate Sunday was a winner. Most of the crews on the 200 boats seemed to have near-limits. There was a short chop on the water, but the sea wasn't considered rough. Many of the anglers were highly enthusiastic about the Les Davis "herding aid" lure, a comparatively new gimmick on the market. It's supposed to put real action into either your anchovy or herring bait.

CALIFORNIA'S SEA other numbers have reached new high. The Department of Fish and Game reported. Figures came from the latest aerial census of the central California coast.

Department observers who conducted the two-day survey between Ano Nuevo Island in San Mateo County and Pismo Beach in San Luis Obispo County recorded 941 sea otters.

Although this was lower than the all-time high count of 1,060 otters observed on a similar two-day aerial census in January, 1972, it was the highest ever recorded in the months of August through December. Previous counts in this period have ranged from 377 to 715.

Based on the aerial count and on shore-based observations made from 34 stations during the same period, the total sea otter population in California waters is estimated at least 1,700.

The current population estimate is coupled to an expansion of sea otter territory of at least 40 miles.

In the north, their range has been extended from Seaside in Monterey County to Soquel Point in Santa Cruz County. To the south, the otters have extended their territory from Cayucos to Diablo Cove, south of Morro Bay. In a few years, we will probably be seeing these animals off the Marin County coast.

Benefit Basketball At Marin Catholic

A basketball game will be held tonight at 7:30 at Marin Catholic High School to benefit Dean of Students David Hennessy, whose seven-month-old daughter Kelly died Feb. 7 after a lengthy and expensive bout with leukemia.

The game will pit the Marin Catholic faculty, coached by Jack Breen, against a team from the student body coached by varsity player Len Kristensen.

The faculty team will include varsity coach Dave Gonsalves, junior varsity coach Tom McCormick, and John Bechtold, Bill Ciabattari, John Evans, Bill Isetta, Joel Kiff, Harry Matsinger, Fr. Guy Murnig, Mike Peterson, Don Ritchie, Antonio Sousa, Tom Thompson, Ron Tocchini and Sue Woodall.

Tickets cost $1 and are available at the gate.

Decision Next Week On Spurs' Winger Forey

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Western Hockey League officials will release their decision on the temporary suspension of Denver Spurs winger Connie Forey by next week. Forey has been out for two games after hitting an official.

Forey jumped onto the ice from the penalty box in Denver's game at Seattle last week and attacked referee Malcolm Ashford, breaking the official's nose. The Spurs' trainer said, "it was the worst break I've ever seen."

WHL president William MacFarland met with league superintendent of officials Dutch Van Deelen, Forey and the player's attorney here Monday in an investigation of the attack.

After the closed meeting, MacFarland said the league would take the matter under advisement. Forey remains under suspension and could be banned indefinitely under WHL regulations.

No time limit was set for a decision by MacFarland.

EDDIE JOE CHAVEZ "Many a nice Saturday afternoon has been wrecked" filling out forms sent by curious college recruiters. (Sketch by Jack Lucey)

PREP OF WEEK

Time Of Decision For Drake's Chavez

By LEW CODDINGTON

Like many other young men with a special knack for throwing a round leather ball through a round metal ring, Eddie Joe Chavez is being given a lot of free advice these days about how he can further his education.

"I have a packet of junk at home this big," he said, his arms spread apart. "I don't know how many colleges have been in touch — at least 50. Many a nice Saturday afternoon has been wrecked filling out forms and answering weird questions."

Of the 50 schools, perhaps five or six have followed up with personal contact, the most eager at the moment being Santa Clara. The big rush, Chavez said, will come next week when coaches congregate in Northern California to watch the Tournament of Champions.

What those schools are seeking is an electrifying 6-foot-1 basketball player from Drake High School noted for his long jump shots from the corner and his spectacular improvised moves on offense.

Last week, Chavez finished his Marin County Athletic League career by scoring 30 and 16 points as the Pirates won twice. He won Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors for the second time, having also done so during his spectacular junior year, when he made all-league and all-TOC.

Just how does a basketball star decide where he is going to school?

"Three things," says Chavez. "I'd like to visit the colleges and get an impression of what the campus is like. I'd like to talk to students. And the coach is important."

Chavez' father Ed, former coach at Tamalpais High, is in a position to offer advice. "He lets me pretty much on my own, though," says Eddie Joe. "That's how I want to do it."

"A lot of people are going out of their way to help me — guidance counselor, coach, dean of boys. It's great, but it's better if I decide myself."

Chavez is undecided about a college major, but leans to "something having to do with animals or nature or the outdoors — maybe forestry or marine biology." He has recently become an avid hiker.

Another recent interest is track and field, and he went to Drake's first practice yesterday hoping to become a high jumper. He never competed before in either spring or fall sports.

Much of his time was spent bouncing basketballs, either in school practices or elsewhere. His job last summer, for example, involved supervising recreational activities at the Tamalpais High gymnasium.

His chief ambition this year was to return to the TOC, but that was ruined when Drake lost three straight games at midyear. "In the beginning, we were a setup team," he says. "That wasn't us. We changed after the slump. We got more relaxed, and we ran and scrapped." The result was seven straight victories.

So if Eddie Joe Chavez finds his Saturday afternoons clogged up with recruiting forms, it's only because he's been doing pretty much what he wants on the court Tuesdays and Fridays.

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Jean Mateo, a middleweight from Stockton, Calif., scored a technical knockout last night over Leroy Romero of Butte, Mont., the main event of a two-card match.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Rose Is Tough Bargainer

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL
As Bud Harrelson learned last October, Pete Rose can be a tough customer.

Rose is now using the same hustle at the bargaining table that he's noted for on the base paths.

The Cincinnati Reds' Charley Hustle thinks he's worth $150,000 after winning the National League's Most Valuable Player award last year. After all, the NL's Cy Young Award winner (Tom Seaver) got $170,000 and Rose thinks it's time he got into that kind of a salary bracket.

Rose, who got involved in the celebrated brawl with Harrelson of the Mets last October in the third game of the playoffs and then hit a game-winning homer in the fourth game, is one of the three Reds still unsigned.

Pedro Borbon, who lost the seventh game of the 1972 World Series but rebounded with a good season last year, and Pat Zachry are still unsigned. Ed Armbrister came to terms yesterday.

Obviously, Rose will be the difficult one to sign. He's already in the six-figure bracket but figures $150,000 is more than reasonable for a Most Valuable Player. The Reds, who have more than their share of big name, high salary players, disagree.

It should be one of the more interesting salary battles of the spring—since the new arbitration procedure has taken much of the drama out of this traditional spring rite. Rose declined to go to arbitration so he could battle it out for himself. That's the Rose way.

It was a rather routine day for spring training yesterday. Everyone was still confident, naturally.

Jack McKeon, the Kansas City manager, said his team has an excellent chance to win—as all managers do. He added, "but everyone must totally dedicate himself if we are to improve." It's a little difficult to be dedicated to baseball in February—but that's spring training for you.

In other camp news: The Chicago White Sox signed Jorge Orta...the Cubs signed Mike Paul and Matt Alexander...Andy Etchebarren, that's right Andy Etchebarren, said he'll retire unless he's traded to California or is given a no-cut, three-year contract...That brings up the logical question, does California want him?... Etchebarren became unhappy when he became a perennial benchwarmer after Earl Williams' arrival.

Atlanta split two with the arbitrators, losing to Darrell Evans and winning from Marty Perez...Eddie Bane and Dan Fife signed for Minnesota... Ralph Houk—remember, he's with the Tigers now instead of the Yankees—says he'll only go with nine pitchers. You can bet John Hiller will be one of them. Mel Stottlemyre and Sparky Lyle are the two Yankee batters who haven't signed. Stottlemyre is close to terms but Lyle isn't.

OWNERS

would help the National Football League, not as to how it would compete with the World Football League."

Rozelle, who has had little to say about the new league, also made one of his few proclamations on it. He admitted the new league had been brought up in his report to the owners and that the NFL's counsel had referred to it.

"Our counsel said the same people are involved with the WFL that are involved with the American Basketball Association and the World Hockey League, and said that litigation has characterized them," said Rozelle.

With expansion and the Super Bowl site out of the way, the key issue now becomes the owners' stand in the upcoming negotiations with the players next month.

Edward Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, has said his group is not interested in financial gains as it is in the rights of the individual players, such as training camp rules, curfews and such. Garvey calls the NFL attitude one of "pervasive paternalism."

John Thompson heads the NFL Management Council which will represent the owners and his group has been meeting here for two days drawing up plans.

Casteel Named Co-Player Of Week In Loop

DAVIS (UPI) — A University of California at Davis freshman and a guard from Chico State are the co-players of the week in Far Western Conference basketball conference.

Mark Ford scored 21 points Friday night against Sonoma State to help Davis to an 82-71 upset win. Saturday night he scored 13 points and got 18 rebounds as Davis defeated Humboldt State 88-63.

The other player of the week, Joe Casteel of Chico, scored 14 points Friday night as the Wildcats trounced Humboldt 96-58. When Chico knocked off Sonoma 90-85 Saturday night, Casteel had 17 points. He had 10 assists for the two games.

Record Cycle Racing Field Set Saturday

The largest indoor motorcycle race in Northern California history takes place Saturday starting at 7 p.m. at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

More than 500 riders will compete in the first American Motorcycle Association Sportsman Indoor Short Track Championships. Three local riders will participate.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.
California Has Changed Rules For Veterans And Servicemen

California has changed the tax rules for members of the armed forces and veterans as follows:

The $1,000 military exclusion restored as to military reserve and retirement compensation. The restored exclusion is reduced 50 cents for each dollar of adjusted gross income over $15,000. The $1,000 military exclusion for extended active duty personnel continues to apply without limitation.

Regarding prisoners of war, etc., now the exclusion of combat pay when hospitalized due to wounds, disease or injury incurred in a combat zone is extended until the earlier of: (1) resumption of full duty status; or (2) termination of active military duty.

They now provide for total exclusion of compensation received by military or civilian employees for any month he was a prisoner of war or missing in action in the Vietnam conflict.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Return On Bank Shares Liberal

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have 52 shares of BancOhio Corp. (OTC). Would I be better off to sell this and put the money in a bank certificate at 7 1/2 per cent? — R.S.

A. In addition to the 5.1 per cent current yield from the $1 annual cash dividend paid by BancOhio, the company has distributed 4 per cent in stock dividends annually for the past eight years. Therefore, you are receiving an effective return of 9.1 per cent from this investment. Until 1973, BancOhio's net income had been in a consistently rising trend. Although net operating earnings were higher in 1973, margins were under pressure reflecting rising interest expenses and costs. Thus, the increase in operating net was insufficient to offset the loss from security transactions, and final earnings were $2.60 a share for the year, down from $2.71 in 1972.

With short-term interest rates now trending lower, the yield spread should prove to be more

STOCK PRICES MIXED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices were mixed on the New York Stock Exchange today following indications from both President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger the oil embargo may not end soon.

Nixon offered little assurance of a quick end to the Arab oil stoppage at his news conference last night. British diplomatic sources said Kissinger did not expect immediate results from his current peace mission to the Middle East.

In other news, Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns told Congress current inflationary trends could lead to soaring interest rates.

Gold mining stocks were mixed despite another recordbreaking climb in bullion prices at London, Zurich and other markets. ASA Ltd. was the standout, gaining 1 1/4.

Keebler Co., the volume leader, fell 3/4 to 28 on 113,700 shares, including a 113,300 share block at that price.

Prices gained in slow trading on the American Exchange. Dent-Tal-Ez led the actives, gaining 1/4 to 8 3/4 on 46,800 shares.

J. Hanna. Safeway plans to leave its old market building standing on one portion of the site, while construction of the new building is going on in another area.

Building Of New Safeway Store In Mill Valley To Start In July

Safeway Store in Mill Valley, at the corner of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue near Tamalpais High School, plans to start building a new and expanded store on the adjacent Arco service station lot about July this year.

The existing Safeway store will remain open and operating throughout the construction so that service will not be interrupted, said Lee Ludwig, design department manager for Safeway Stores, headquartered in Fremont. When the new building is completed next year, the existing building will be torn down and paved for parking.

"The new Safeway will be larger and have more complete facilities including an in-store, on-the-premises bakery," said Ludwig. "We plan extensive landscaping for a park-like effect, with the entrance facing the corner of Camino Alto and Miller."

Safeway bought the old Arco station property so that its expanded building will still leave as many parking spaces as before, in addition to the landscaped areas.

W. S. ALLAN of San Rafael was appointed vice president, treasurer and cashier of The Hongkong Bank of California in San Francisco. He has 20 years of Far Eastern experience with the parent organization, The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. Allan has been affiliated with St. Andrew and Caledonian Societies for the past 30 years.

Twelfth House, a new Sausalito restaurant featuring hot sandwiches and hamburgers, will open Thursday at 581 Bridgeway, opposite the Trident restaurant.

The Twelfth House is owned by Gene Horton of San Rafael, who formerly worked at Booby's restaurant in San Rafael; and Rick Beaudreaux of Mill Valley, who formerly owned the Village Inn in Mill Valley for about three years.

The new restaurant, open for luncheon and dinner seven days a week, will have gaily decorated tables overlooking the Sausalito waterfront.

LAND INVESTORS RESEARCH of Larkspur announced it has purchased 328 acres of producing vineyards for its investor clients. The vineyard investment consists of five vineyards, about 200 acres near Santa Rosa and the rest near Geyserville.

The property will be managed by LIR Management Company, an operating company of Land Investors Research, with on-site management by William M. Domenichelli Jr. of Geyserville, agricultural manager.

Land Investors Research is headed by Gordon Pussner of Lagunitas, a candidate for Democratic nomination for the state senate.

Yarling said his new Bay Cities Insurance Agency is not committed to any particular insurance firm. "We can pick and choose to best serve the needs of our clients," Yarling will continue to handle securities as well as insurance.

Housing For Elderly Is Given Boost

Novato Rotary Club's plans for a housing project for the elderly got an assist last night when the Novato Planning Commission recommended rezoning of the proposed housing site.

Commissioners recommended rezoning from multiple-family to planned residential at the half-acre site at 1124 Olive Avenue, as requested by the club.

The rezoning will permit more units than permitted at present and will enable more flexibility in arrangements of units, the planning staff reported.

The club plans to construct 20 to 30 units at the site, which is within walking distance of downtown Novato.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

GNOSS FIELD — Recommended council approval of Marin County's master plan for Gnos Field and the environmental impact report on the plan.

CONDOMINIUM — Approved a request by E. R. Ghirardo and Horst Hanf to switch a 108-unit apartment complex on Center Road, between South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue, from apartment to condominium management. Commissioner Robert Glascock was absent.

Meany Is Considering Oil Nationalization

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany says he may soon urge Congress to nationalize the oil industry.

Asked if this would be "socialistic," Meany snapped that it would, but no more so than city governments operating transit, water and other public utility systems, or the creation of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Meany told reporters he still isn't convinced the oil shortage is genuine.

He said yesterday he was considering calling the labor federations' Executive Council into special session soon to decide whether to call for the government to take over the oil industry.

Meany said there was some sentiment at the winter meeting of the Executive Council, which ended yesterday, for an immediate call for nationalization of the oil industry. But he said a decision was delayed in favor of a resolution passed last week asking Congress to consider regulating the oil industry as a public utility.

This marked the second industry the labor federation—which has considerable lobbying clout in Congress—has suggested the government should take over. Earlier, Meany and other AFL-CIO officials said the railroads should be nationalized if they can't be operated without government subsidy, or won't agree to pay their employees fair wages.

In other action, the council urged Congress to outlaw the airline industry's Mutual Aid Pact (MAP), under which struck airlines get cash help from airlines still operating.

The council said the MAP prolongs airline strikes and permits struck carriers to make a profit during a walkout.

Special Senate Election Campaign Cost $230,000

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The campaigns of the two leading candidates in last month's special election which gave Democrats majority control of the Senate cost a combined total of $230,000.

Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-Chino, spent $89,019 in his upset victory over Republican Assemblyman Jerry Lewis of Highland, state records showed Monday. Lewis estimated he spent about $140,000.

Ayala was the first Mexican-American elected to the Senate since 1911. His victory gave Democrats majority control of the Senate for the first time since 1972.

Ayala received major contributions from the political arm of the California Medical Association, incumbent senators, labor unions and the State Democratic Party.

The physicians' group gave Ayala the largest amount—$5,000. The association, however, gave Lewis an identical sum.

Lewis reported receiving a $30,000 loan from the Bank of California National Association. Major contributors included the California Teachers Association, $3,000; Republican State Central Committee, $10,000; Orange County Committee for State and Local Candidates, $4,000; the California Dental Political Association Committee, $2,500, and California Savings and Loan League, $1,000.

The United Republican Finance Committee of Los Angeles paid $5,000 worth of Lewis' campaign bills.

Lewis' campaign finance statement, which he made available to newsmen, showed he spent $67,495 during the general election and received contributions of $84,359. It did not include the primary election in December but the assemblyman estimated his total expenditures at $140,000.

The statement showed a deficit of $32,850. Lewis said the deficit resulted from his $30,000 loan and debts from the primary.

Ayala's campaign finance statement, on file with the office of Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., showed the senator collected $69,189 for the primary and general election in the sprawling San Bernardino County district.

The statement reported Ayala's campaign committee owed $23,260 in unpaid bills and outstanding loans.

Ayala won the election Jan. 15 to fill the seat of former Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, after strongly criticizing "excessive" spending by Lewis. The total spent by both Lewis and Ayala compared to the more than $500,000 spent last year by the leading candidates in the special election won by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-North Hollywood.

Among his major contributors, Ayala listed Democratic gubernatorial contender Herb Hafif of Claremont. Hafif bought $2,127 in television advertising for Ayala.

Tuesday, February 26, 1974

Independent-Journal, 35

Democratic lawmakers contributed $4,600 to the former San Bernardino County supervisor's race. Sen. Nicholas C. Petris of Oakland, recently elected Democratic caucus chairman, gave the most — $750. Sen. George H. Zenovich of Fresno gave $600 and $500 came from Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego.

Labor unions and their officials contributed more than $3,800 in cash and services. Various arms of the Democratic State Central Committee chipped in about $2,000 to Ayala's campaign.

Everything you ever wanted in a checking plan for only $2 a month.

We'd like to make things easier for you. That's why we've combined our most useful services in one checking account. The All-in-One Checking Plan. You pay a flat fee of only $2 a month. No fluctuating charges. No minimum balance. Write all the checks you want.

No filling out separate applications for separate services. One application does the job at Bank of America.

Look at what you get:

1. Unlimited checkwriting.

You're not charged according to the number of checks you write. Write one or a hundred. The ceiling's unlimited at Bank of America.

2. No minimum balance.

Unlike some plans, your service charge doesn't go up when your balance goes down. There's no extra charge whatever your balance.

3. Free personalized checks.

And we mean exactly that. You don't have to pay extra for your personalized checks. Free personalized checks with your name and address are included in the deal. As well as any design you choose from our wide selection of colorful checks.

4. Check guarantee card.

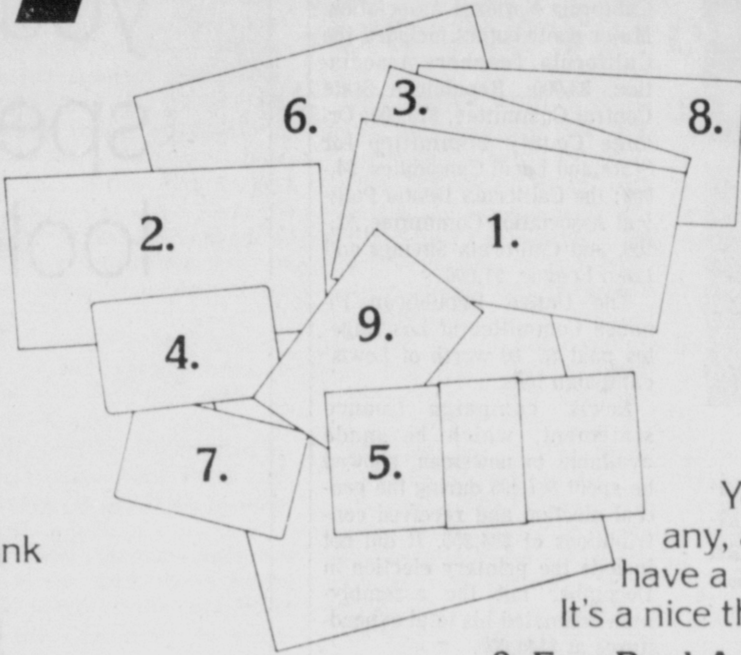

This is probably the handiest I.D. card you can carry. It makes it quicker to cash checks at any Bank of America office. Thousands of merchants honor it. Our Courtesy Card (that's our name for it) says your check is good up to $100.

5. Overdraft protection.

No more worry about bounced checks. With the All-in-One Checking Plan you get Instant Cash. For a small transfer fee you can write a check for more than you have in your account up to the limit of your available BankAmericard® credit.

6. The Timesaver® Statement.

This is the checking statement that makes it easier to balance your checkbook. It lists your checks in numerical order—even indicates those checks which haven't come in yet.

You can also have it include a summary of your savings accounts and other information if you wish. You can tell at a glance where you stand.

7. BankAmericard®.

Once your application is approved, you also get our credit card—the biggest boon to everyday shopping. It's good throughout California, the United States and all over the world.

One monthly bill helps you keep track of expenses. You write only one check. (Interest and other charges, if any, are not included in the $2 monthly fee.) If you already have a BankAmericard, you know it's good for cash, too.

It's a nice thing to have even if you never use it.

8. Free BankAmerica Travelers Cheques.

They're safer than cash. You get a prompt refund anywhere in the world if they are lost, stolen or destroyed.

Use as many as you want as often as you want. With the All-in-One Checking Plan you pay no additional service charge for Travelers Cheques.

9. Automatic Transfer Service. (optional)

It's a little like organized willpower. Makes regular savings deposits or loan payments for you automatically, from your Bank of America checking account. Saves time, simplifies things. Especially helpful when you're ill or out of town.

You can apply for an All-in-One Checking Plan at any Bank of America office. Come in and see us for additional information on this plan. We can do more for you than any other bank. More Californians depend on us for all their checking needs. How about you?
